Plan for 100 $80,000 homes in Ganesha Hills OK'd

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Some 100 "executive" homes costing $80,000 or more are proposed in a redevelopment project area in the Ganesha Hills which was unanimously approved Monday night by the Pomona City Council.

To be known as Mountain Meadows Project Area, the district is bounded generally by the San Bernardino Freeway on the south, Ganesha Boulevard on the west, McKinley Avenue on the north and the developed portions of the Ganesha Hills on the east. The project area will be officially adopted by a second vote of the council next Monday.

Some resistance to the project area was expressed by individual homeowners in the Ganesha Hills, although Charles Horne and Gerald Case, officers of the Ganesha Hills homeowners association, supported the proposal.

Charlene Daniel, a Ganesha Hills homeowner, said she opposed the project because the information provided by the city so far has been "too vague and general."

She compared the project to "buying a pig in a poke."

Mrs. Daniel also questioned where the city would obtain revenues to support added police and other services once the area is developed.

Another Ganesha Hills resident, Roxie Hamer, told the council that she feared a developer "will slice up the hills" to squeeze out profit.

Pomona resident E. J. Gaulding testified that development of the hills should be left in the hands of private enterprise alone.

"I think this whole thing should be thrown out and come back with something more specific," said Gaulding.

In general, however, the project area received the backing of the city's "establishment."

Donald Des Combes, representing the Pomona Chamber of Commerce Redevelopment Committee, cast his support and the committee's in favor of project.

Charles Stillinger, chairman of the city's Redevelopment Commission, presented the commission's endorsement of the project.

Stillinger also read a letter from Pomona School District Superintendent Charles C. Carpenter indicating the school board supports the project.

In response to the request of Horne and Case, the council included in adoption of the project area the creation of a citizen's advisory committee to propose a list of covenants, conditions and restrictions that should apply to the residential property in the district.

Presumably such conditions would be similar to those in effect for property in the developed portion of the Ganesha Hills.

The vote adopting the project area and authorizes the citizen's committee was 4-0, with Councilman Adrian Wright absent.

Comments by the council members prior to the vote indicated that the top concern for the project area will be insuring that when development occurs it is of the highest quality.

Although most of the discussion concerning the Mountain Meadows project has been about residential development, the district also includes a strip of commerical property running just north of the San Bernardino Freeway.

With the adoption of the project prior to Jan. 1, the city eliminates the need to comply with new legislation that might require the city to spend 20 per cent of all redevelopment revenues on low cost housing in the city.

Specific plans for development of the area can be expected in coming months. Such plans, down to and including such items as lot and house sizes, elevations, building materials and building styles, will all be subject to review and approval by the council in public session following public hearings.

Carter names two more to his Cabinet

ATLANTA (AP) — Jimmy Carter has chosen W. Michael Blumental, chairman of the Bendix Corp., to be his treasury secretary and Rep. Brock Adams to be his secretary of transportation. Carter sent word of the choices to key senators today.

The President-elect, pushing to complete his Cabinet by Christmas, is announcing at least four Cabinet-level choices this week, with a woman likely to be the first commerce secretary in history.

Carter called a 2:30 p.m. EDT news conference here to announce two of the choices. Carter aides relayed word of the Blumenthal and Adams choices to senators in Washington who will consider the nominations.

Carter, it was learned, also has asked Jane Cahill Pfeiffer, a former IBM Corp. vice president, to serve as his commerce secretary. She would be the first woman to occupy the post since it was created in 1913.

John Dunlop, who resigned as labor secretary in the Ford administration, is a leading candidate to return to that post under Carter. In advance of the news conference, Carter was to meet with Dunlop today at the Georgia governor's mansion where Carter spent the night after interviewing prospective appointees Monday.

This was the second Carter-Dunlop meeting in two weeks. The prospect of Dunlop's nomination has drawn protest from some women's groups, and representatives of minorities who claim he has failed to push for equal job opportunities.

Meanwhile, more names were appearing on the list of prospective cabinet appointees.

Harold Brown, president of the California Institute of Technology and a high Pentagon official in the Johnson administration, reportedly is a front runner for secretary of defense.

Carter is believed leaning toward the selection of Charles Schultze, budget director in the Johnson administration, to be chairman of the presidential Council of Economic Advisers.

Russians name new diplomat to U.N. post

MOSCOW (AP) — Oleg A. Troyanovsky, career diplomat and son of the first Soviet ambassador to Washington, has been appointed ambassador to the United Nations, Tass said today. He replaces veteran Jacob A. Malik, who has returned to Moscow to work there as deputy foreign minister.

Troyanovsky, whose appointment had been expected, is an expert in Far Eastern affairs. Partially educated in the United States, he speaks fluent English.

Malik, 70, returned to Moscow on Monday after a series of farewell visits with his longtime U.N. colleagues. He served two terms at the United Nations, from 1948 to 1952 and from 1968 to 1976.

Troyanovsky, regarded as an urbane diplomat with a wry sense of humor, was Soviet ambassador to Japan from 1967 until he was succeeded in Tokyo earlier this year by Dmitri Polyansky, former agriculture minister and politburo member.

Coffee prices soar; markets urging customers to switch

By Associated Press

Soaring coffee prices have prompted officials of at least two supermarket chains to suggest that their customers switch to other beverages to try to bring costs down.

In a move reminiscent of the sugar boycott two years ago, Kenneth Knese, area manager for the nine Justrite stores in Kansas City, Mo., posted signs in his outlets reading:

"We at Justrite feel coffee costs have become ridiculous. Therefore, we are asking you to select a substitute until coffee suppliers reduce their cost to you."

A similar message came from Neil Golub, head of the company that runs the Price Chopper chain in the Albany, N.Y., area. Golub has been running full-page advertisements urging customers to try tea, boullion, hot chocolate or hot cider.

"We did the same thing when the price of sugar went up ... and we think it might work again," he said.

Spokesmen at stores in other areas of the country said they did not plan to encourage any formal boycott, but expected that consumers would revolt without any urging.

"The consumer is smart enough to know," said Ted Simmons of Colonial Stores in Atlanta. "I assume that when the price gets high enough, they'll say the hell with it."

Sugar prices climbed to record levels in late 1974, prompting consumer groups and some stores to urge a boycott. The higher prices — more than $3 for a five-pound sack of sugar — were blamed on increased demand. Consumption dropped and so did prices. By this fall, the average retail price for a five-pound bag of sugar was about $1.15, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Coffee prices, meanwhile, started rising in the summer of 1975 after a frost in Brazil destroyed much of the crop that would have been harvested this year. Political unrest in Africa also cut the world supply.

Recent increases have boosted prices to about $3 a pound at the wholesale level. Retail prices still are under $3 a pound in most areas — partly because merchants are selling cheaper, existing supplies and partly because they are using coffee as a "loss leader" to get customers into their stores.

The Albany and Kansas City stores aren't the only ones urging a boycott. U.S. Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., head of the subcommittee on commerce, consumer and monetary affairs, launched an inquiry into the increase in the price of coffee.

He noted that there had been several special promotions on coffee recently and said: "If there is a shortage, why are there discounts? The quickest and surest way for consumers to avoid being squeezed to the last drop is to vote with their dollars — refuse to pay the prices."

WOUNDED SON RECOVERING

Cripple slain

IRA bomb blitz sends Yule shoppers fleeing

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Irish Republican Army strewed bombs across Belfast and at three other places in Northern Ireland, blocked roads with hijacked cars and trucks and killed a cripple who couldn't move fast enough.

Monday's pre-Christmas blitz was the worst outbreak by the IRA's Provisional wing in several months. The Roman Catholic guerrillas said they were protesting "intolerable conditions" to which IRA men were subjected in the Maze prison southwest of Belfast.

Police said Roy Young, a 23-year-old Protestant paralyzed on one side by polio, was killed because he did not immediately obey when three masked gunmen burst into a Belfast brush factory and ordered the employes to lie on the floor.

Young was shot in the head and back. The gunmen allowed the 200 other employes to escape before three bombs wrecked the factory.

Other bombs went off at the Landsdowne Hotel, a bus depot and a restaurant in downtown Belfast, panicking Christmas shoppers. Gunmen fired on employes fleeing the hotel, but Young was the only casualty reported in Belfast.

Carter plans to wear jeans in White House

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Carter says he will "absolutely" wear blue jeans in the White House — but not while he receives a French ambassador who's wearing a morning coat.

The President-elect also confided in an interview with ABC's Barbara Walters that he and wife Rosalynn usually sleep in a double bed and plan to continue doing so.

"It's much more comfortable in a double bed," he added.

Miss Walters raised the question of blue jeans during the interview taped in Plains, Ga., Nov. 27 for airing Tuesday night.

"That's my normal attire," Carter said. "I did it all the time, all the time I was governor, you know."

But he hastened to add that "I would not embarrass the nation by having a formal conference with the French ambassador and my wearing blue jeans and his wearing a morning coat.

"I would do the proper things about dress."

Carter also said he doesn't plan to stop jogging for exercise once he's in the White House.

"Whether you'll see me or not, I don't know. But I'll be jogging."

'She wanted to take him with her'

Youngster shot by mom recovering

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A man whose wife shot their 4-year-old son and then killed herself says "she loved him so much, she wanted to take him with her."

Joe Tilton, 30, said in an interview Monday that he hopes his son, Jody, will also adopt that outlook toward the tragic final actions of his mother, Judith Rae Tilton, on the afternoon of Dec. 4.

"Jody's going to have some beautiful memories of her," said Tilton, a radio executive in the western Oklahoma community of Elk City, who is staying here while his son is in an Oklahoma City hospital. Doctors say the boy should recover completely from damage to his liver, lung, diaphragm and stomach caused by a single .45 caliber pistol bullet that entered through his back.

Tilton said he doesn't ever expect to understand just what went on in his wife's mind before she died.

"Something somewhere snapped, and I just thank God that something happened when I could be a part of saving my son's life," he said.

He said he and his wife of 10 years had "a super family life" and there was "no question" she loved her family.

Tilton said she "tried so hard to be perfect that she just couldn't ... there were times I knew that she just couldn't be the perfect person ... she strived to be the ideal wife, the ideal mother, you could ask anybody that knew her.

"I look back at it now and I see there was a period of time when she was depressed. But how many of us have times of depression?"

Tilton has consulted pyschologists about his son and said, "He's taking it like a normal 4-year-old." The child knows his mother is dead and has talked to his father about her, Tilton said. But he declined to discuss what Jody had told him.

Mrs. Tilton, 30, a former secretary, had stayed home to be a full-time wife and mother since the birth of Jody, the couple's only child. Tilton said she spent a few hours a week as a hospital volunteer in Elk City and helped with Sunday church services for children at the Elk City Church of God.

"Judy was a very religious woman, she was very diligent in her Bible reading and prayer," Tilton said.

"She never mistreated Jody," and Mrs. Tilton had no history of mental illness, Tilton said.

Tilton recalled the afternoon of Dec. 4, a Saturday, when he was practicing his electric organ in the living room for church services the next day.

He said he heard a shot and rushed into the bedroom.

"Jody had just hit the floor," bleeding heavily, Tilton said. "I thought it was an accident," that Jody had accidently shot himself, Tilton said. "Judy didn't move, she just stood there."

He grabbed Jody in his arms, ran to his car, and drove to the Elk City Hospital less than a mile away.

After he arrived, Tilton told an ambulance to bring his wife to the hospital. He remembered that he had seen blood on her hand and said he was afraid she had been hurt.

When authorities arrived at the apartment they found Mrs. Tilton dead. She had shot herself in the heart, Tilton said. A neighbor reported hearing a shot just after she saw Tilton running frantically to the car with Jody.

Tilton said he kept the gun his wife used at home because "obviously I wanted my family protected."

Tilton, general manager of radio station KADS in Elk City, said the tragedy has made him more religious.

He said he believes it was a miracle "that God spared his (Jody's) life. I really request the prayers of all believers that I'll raise this guy right," Tilton said softly. "But how can I follow in her (Mrs. Tilton's) footsteps?"

Rate structure 'unjust, unfair'—Hahn

L.A. County motorists paying higher insurance

Pomona's rates one of lowest in county

Pomona is one of several areas where the insurance rate is the lowest in Los Angeles County. Other areas where the rate is $221 include Sundland, Pasadena, Monterey Park, Whittier and Covina.

The rate is somewhat higher — $228 — for the coastal strip from Pacific Palisades to Long Beach and inland to Downey.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles County motorists are paying as high as 2½ times as much for auto insurance as are Orange County residents, according to Los Angeles County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn.

And Hahn, calling the insurance rate structure "unjust, unfair and basically wrong," said Monday he would call for a state investigation.

"Persons who live in the metropolitan area sometimes pay double the insurance when they have the same driving records and coverage as persons who live outside the (Los Angeles) central area," Hahn said.

However, he added, persons who commute to downtown Los Angeles to work and shop, and thereby add to the congestion, have far lower rates.

The minimum insurance policy most companies will write costs $172 in Orange County, but ranges from $221 to $444 in Los Angeles County, he said.

The minimum policy, Hahn said, includes $25,000 to 50,000 liability and property damage coverage, and $15,000 to $30,000 protection against uninsured motorists.

From Malibu to the San Fernando Valley the rate is $334, and it reaches a high of $444 for the area that stretches from Watts-Willowbrook through Beverly Hills.

Hahn suggested that the markedly higher rates may be one reason why a high percentage of Los Angeles County vehicles are not insured. There are 4.7 million car, trucks and motorcycles in the county, Hahn said, but only 3.8 million are insured.

Dummar's fingerprints said to be on Hughes will envelope

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The gas station attendant who claimed he gave Howard Hughes a ride and loaned him a quarter faces possible criminal charges if it is confirmed that his fingerprints are on an envelope bearing a purported will.

A court here was told Monday that the FBI concluded the fingerprints of Melvin Dummar, who said he found Hughes wandering in the desert in 1968, were on the envelope of the so-called Mormon Will.

James Dilworth, attorney for the late billionaire's estate, told Superior Court Judge Neil A. Lake that the FBI concluded 10 days ago that the prints were Dummar's. The FBI, however, would not comment.

Dummar, named to receive one-sixteenth of Hughes' estate in the handwrittten will, has claimed he had no knowledge of the document until it was made public in Las Vegas.

The court was also told that Dummar's fingerprints have shown up on a book and a magazine article about Hughes that were in the library of the college Dummar attended. Both publications contained samples of Hughes' handwriting.

In Ogden, Utah, Dummar's attorney suggested that someone may have attempted to transfer his client's thumbprint on the envelope containing the will.

Attorney Roger Dutson denied that his client had ever handled the envelope or had any connection with the enclosed will, backing an earlier claim by Dummar in a sworn deposition last week in Salt Lake City.

Dutson also said the fingerprints on a book entitled "Hoax" and a 1971 Life magazine article on Hughes were explained by the fact that Dummar looked at some Hughes biographical matter at Weber State College in Ogden out of curiosity, and after being named in the will.

The will mysteriously surfaced April 27 at the Salt Lake City World Headquarters of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. Hughes had died some three weeks earlier on a flight from Acapulco to Houston.

"It's been our belief for months that Mr. Dummar was, and had to be, involved in the forgery of this will," said Dilworth, a Texas attorney representing three of Hughes' maternal cousins in the hearings being conducted to gather depositions prior to a Jan. 10 Las Vegas probate trial on the will's authenticity.

Brown gives no word on his action on the death penalty

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. isn't talking about whether he'd sign or veto new death penalty legislation, but he does say he is still personally opposed to capital punishment.

At a news conference Monday, the Democratic governor also talked about his visit to Camarillo State Hospital Sunday and said he thought more funds alone would not solve problems in the state mental hospitals.

"The problem is not just more money. They need other human being to care about them," he said of the hospital's patients.

While talking with reporters in the Capitol garage, Brown repeated his opposition to capital punishment.

But he declined repeatedly to answer specific questions on what he will do if the legislature sends him one of the death penalty bills introduced after the California Supreme Court threw out the state's capital punishment law.

Last week the California court said the law did not meet U.S. Supreme Court guidelines for constitutionality.

Bank president kidnaped

Police told of robbery, drugging

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A banker has told police he was kidnaped, drugged and robbed of $300,000 of his bank's money.

Henry Hwang, 48, president and chairman of the Far East National Bank, said a gunman took him from an El Sereno accounting office he runs and forced him to go to a downtown hotel Monday, said Police Cmdr. Peter Hagen.

He was forced to drink something which left him confused and then ordered to call his bank to tell an official to bring $300,000 in cash, police said Hwang told them.

Officers said a bank vice president reported turning the money over to Hwang.

Henry Hwang, president of the Far East National Bank is led into the Los Angeles police department after he was found in a drugged condition in a downtown parking lot. Hwang claims he was kidnaped and drugged at gunpoint after which he was ordered to call his bank demanding $300,000 ransom.

Einstein's theory enters Mars mission

PASADENA (AP) — Radio signals from the Viking spacecraft during a lapse in their reporting of scientific information from Mars may prove as exciting as reports of conditions on the planet, scientists feel.

The signals could help prove — or disprove — Einstein's theory of relativity, postulated at the turn of the century but never definitely tested.

Over a month ending Monday, orders to the two orbiters and two landers were discontinued and results of biological and chemical tests to find Martian life stored up for later transmission.

Mars had traveled to the opposite side of the sun from Earth, causing interference with communication. But the radio signals kept on coming, except for a six-day blackout around Thanksgiving.

Scientists were able to measure a delay in those signals, which Albert Einstein's theory says should have been caused by the sun's gravitational pull. The quantity and quality of the measurements were better than any experiment in the past which has tested Einstein's relativity theory, said Viking project director G. Calvin Broome.

MAC members to be sworn in tonight

The Diamond Bar Municipal Advisory Council will meet this evening at 8 in Chaparral Intermediate School in Diamond Bar with items on the agenda including the swearing in of the council's members following last week's declaration by the county Board of Supervisors proclaiming the MAC a legal entity.

The four elected members, Brenda Engdahl, Don Stokes, George Resh and Ronald Foerstel, will be sworn in along with Board of Supervisors' appointee Richard Vind. Supervisor Peter Schabarum or a member of his staff will perform the ceremony.

Other agenda items for the meeting include discussion and adoption of procedural roles of county commissions and committees. The MAC may also take a vote on officers for the forthcoming year.

MAC meetings are tentatively scheduled for the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at Chaparral Intermediate School. The council has acquired a post office box, P.O. Box 4778, Diamond Bar, 91765. The phone number is 595-6093.

Architectural commission to review Claremont tract

The Claremont Architectural Commission Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. will conduct a preliminary review of a 32-lot tract which is causing concern among city staff members and the Planning Commission.

The current applicant, Olson and Wells, has agreed to the review only of a tract on the south side of Base Line Road between Forbes and Mills avenues.

The Planning Commission expressed concern about three-car garages and large houses on the 10,000-square-foot lots and the siting of two-story houses to assure privacy of adjacent homes.

In other matters, the commission will review plans for a 97-room, three-story hotel at Griswold's.

City Atty. William Bergman has decided that a proposed observation tower and stairway will require a variance.

The commission will review a proposal by Anthony Federico for a sign to identify Federico's Italian Deli at 131 Yale Ave.

A.L. district officials rap state testing

Despite a large jump there in statewide reading, writing and arithmetic ratings, Alta Loma School District officials branded state testing program results "so much useless data."

Echoing recent published reports attacking methods used by the State Department of Education in testing California's primary and secondary pupils, trustee Paul Sage said data obtained from the state is worthless.

"It's just so much useless data. It cannot be used to improve present programs in telling us how to improve our programs on the local level," said Sage, himself a teacher-counselor in the Chaffey Union High School District.

Supt. Floyd Stork criticized the program which he said makes it impossible for the state and individual districts to compare themselves with national averages.

Stork presented statistics to trustees indicating second, third and sixth graders tested in the elementary district last year improved over the previous year in state standings. In reading, second graders jumped 57th to the 63 percentile while third graders moved up from the 79th to 80th and sixth graders from the 60th to 65th.

But Stork said, the method in which grading data is extrapolated makes results meaningless.

In other action, trustees approved purchase of eight acres on a 10-acre site for the new Floyd Stork School on Jasper Avenue in the district's crowded northwestern quadrant. Cost of the land will be $87,500.

Trustees also approved hiring of four new teachers to meet increased enrollment since school opened in September.

Because of Christmas holidays, next trustee meeting will not be until 7:30 p.m. Jan. 10 at Alta Loma Junior High School. Two days later at the same time, members of the newly formed committee to study possibility of altering the program into a year round school curriculum will meet at the same time and place.

Jewish community observes Chanukah beginning Thursday

The valley's Jewish community will join its counterparts throughout the world sundown Thursday to observe Chanukah — The Festival of Lights — for eight days.

The holiday observed primarily in the home commemorates the victory of the ancient Hebrews over the ruling Syrians 2,000 years ago.

The Festival of Lights is a rekindling of candles which memorializes the rededication of the Temple of Solomon after the Hebrews drove the Syrians out of their land.

Chanukah is a time of rejoicing with traditional games, food, songs and prayer.

Appropriate services are scheduled next Friday night at both Temple Beth Israel in Pomona and Temple Sholom in Ontario.

In addition, the Brotherhood of Temple Beth Israel is planning a Chanukah dinner open to the general public at 5:30 p.m. next Sunday, where traditional foods of the holiday will be served.

Chanukah is also the time when Jews throughout the world rededicate themselves to the preservation of the state of Israel, as they had done in the 2nd Century before the birth of Jesus.

But electors call for abolition of the system

Electoral College confirms Carter victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even as presidential electors confirmed Jimmy Carter's election to the presidency, some called for abolition of the Electoral College as a cumbersome mechanism that could thwart the will of the voters.

As if to dramatize their point, a maverick elector in the state of Washington cast his vote for ex-Calif. Gov. Ronald Reagan, who was not even on the ballot in the general election.

"A very curious institution," college professor Lawrence Longley said in describing the Electoral College before joining with 10 other Wisconsin electors who urged that it be dissolved before the next presidential election.

In Iowa, elector James Senior said, "The real electors are the people who vote on election day."

By a seven-to-one vote, the Iowa electors went on to recommend that Congress either abolish the system through constitutional amendment or change it to prevent some future presidential candidate from losing the popular vote but winning the White House in the Electoral College.

Their fears did not materialize this year.

On Monday, the electors gave 297 votes to Carter, 240 to his Republican opponent, President Ford, and one to Reagan. Carter needed a simple majority of 270 from the 538 electors to win.

Republicans in Ohio had charged voting irregularities and sued to halt the certification by the state's 25 electors. But a federal judge cleared the way for the ballots to be cast routinely.

While the electoral vote was being recorded in 50 state capitals and the District of Columbia, official popular vote figures showed Carter's winning margin in the Nov. 2 election was 1,681,135. Carter received 40,827,292 votes and carried 23 states and the District of Columbia to 39,146,157 and 27 states for Ford.

A record 81.52 million Americans voted in the election.

The last act in the process of making the election official comes Jan. 6 when Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller will formally announce the outcome to the surprise of no one, at a joint session of Congress.

There is nothing in the Constitution requiring the electors, mainly Republican or Democratic party regulars, to vote for any specific candidate. Taking advantage of that fact was Spokane lawyer Mike Padden, who was supposed to vote for Ford.

Padden decided to protest Ford's unwillingness to endorse a constitutional amendment to ban abortion, a position Regan has endorsed, and he voted for the man whom Ford beat for the GOP nomination.

Carter's successor as governor of Georgia, George Busbee, an elector, used the occasion to note the historical significance of the election.

"I view our votes as a signal to the nation of the dawning of a new era," Busbee said. "Our action should express beyond a shadow of a doubt that the War Between the States is finally over and that the South has rejoined the Union."

All 12 of Georgia's electors voted as expected for Carter.

Illinois, which had not voted for a losing presidential candidate since 1916, gave 26 electoral votes to Ford. Elector William C. Ives said, "I suspect historians will be far more generous to Mr. Ford than were the voters."

Massachusetts electors, some of whom were in formal dress to cast their ballots, received $3 plus 20 cents a mile in travel expenses.

No more delaying tactics—Gilmore

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A "somber and reflective" Gary Gilmore has instructed his attorney to enter into no new tactics that might delay his execution by firing squad, the attorney said.

Gilmore, said to be "very happy" the U.S. Supreme Court acted quickly to lift its stay of his execution, broke his 25-day hunger strike after hearing the news.

The high court action threw his fate back to Utah's courts, which have twice set death dates for the inmate. But an obstacle of Gilmore's own making stood between him and the firing squad — his bid for freedom on a legal technicality.

Gilmore's attorney, Ronald Stanger, declined today to say whether Gilmore had asked him to withdraw that action — a request for a writ to free Gilmore because the state had not executed him within 60 days of sentencing as required by a section of state law whose application in Gilmore's case is disputed.

Stanger, however, said he had been authorized by Gilmore to enter into no delaying tactic. Stanger said he would go to 4th District Court to file a motion in connection with the application for freedom. He would not say what the motion would be.

Stanger said Gilmore does not want his lawyers to "pre-empt the criminal justice system."

The lawyer said he did not know why Gilmore had stopped his hunger strike. He said there was no indication of the inmate's plans when they talked at the prison Monday night.

A lieutenant at the Utah State Prison said Gilmore, who had refused solid food since Nov. 19 because he was prevented from contacting his girlfriend, ate an orange and two cheese and lunchmeat sandwiches just before midnight. He later had an apple and some milk.

The lieutenant said he didn't know why Gilmore had ended his fast, but he said the prisoner had still not talked with his girlfriend, Nicole Barrett. She was confined to a mental institution following their attempted double suicide last month.

In voting 5 to 4 to lift its stay Monday, the Supreme Court returned the case to the 4th District Court in Provo, where Gilmore was first sentenced. The high court said it was satisfied that Gilmore knew what he was doing when he accepted his condemnation to death.

But three dissenting justices said the key issue was whether Utah's capital punishment law was constitutional and that Gilmore's own desire to face the firing squad makes no difference. The fourth, Justice Thurgood Marshall, said he disagreed specifically with Chief Justice Warren Burger's view "that Gilmore has competently, knowingly and intelligently decided to let himself be killed."

Stanger said Gilmore, who has lost 38 of his 178 pounds since starting a hunger strike Nov. 19, did not express "a desire to die as such" when he saw him Monday night. But Stanger said Gilmore instructed him to enter "no delaying tactic whatsoever. It's Gary's desire that the justice system act quickly and effectively."

Security tight as oil ministers meet

DOHA, Qatar (AP) — Sea, air and land security was mounted today for oil ministers of the 13 major oil exporting countries as they gathered for a meeting in which they are expected to raise the price of oil by 8 to 15 per cent.

Ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, who begin their session Wednesday, will argue recommendations ranging from a freeze or token increase to a massive 25 per cent or more. Observers predict they will settle somewhere in the middle.

To avoid a raid similar to that on an OPEC meeting in Vienna a year ago, the 4,000-man police and armed forces of this Persian Gulf sheikdom are taking stringent security precautions.

The conference room of the 342-room Gulf Hotel is equipped with electronically operated bullet-proof shutters. Two floors are reserved for security men. Every room has been searched with electronic devices.

A guerrilla reported to be the international terrorist Carlos led an attack on the Vienna meeting. Three persons were killed and ministers from the richest oil countries were kidnaped. The ministers were released in Algeria after payment of ransom.

The industrialized West, led by the United States, has mounted a diplomatic campaign against a large price increase at this meeting. U.S. officials say any rise of more than 8 per cent cannot be absorbed and could renew the international recession.

American officials say a 15 per cent increase would up U.S. inflation from the present 6 per cent a year to 7 per cent. Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi of Iran, who favors a 15 per cent increase, says it would add only "a fraction" to inflation.

Spotlight on area crime

Pair robs nude model studio

Two men, one armed with a sawed-off shotgun, robbed the Cover Girl, a nude model studio at 360 E. Holt Ave. Monday night.

The owner, Edward Marion, 49, of La Mirada, said he heard voices from inside his office and when he went to the studio he found the employes, Cherri Carter, 22, of Ontario, and Tracy Lee Bennett, 26, of Downey, lying on the floor. They told police the men entered waving the shotgun and demanding money. The women were forced to lie on the floor while the men looted their purses and fled on foot.

Market robbed

A man armed with a knife robbed El Chico's Market at 8684 Arrow Highway in Cucamonga of a small amount of money about 12:30 p.m. Monday West End Sheriff's Deputies reported.

Deputies said, the robber entered the store and pulled a knife on the clerk demanding cash from the register. The clerk complied and the robber took the money and fled out the door to a large aqua blue colored sedan containing a white woman.

Market held up

A mustachioed man armed with a hand gun robbed the 7-Eleven Market at 10132 Central Avenue in Montclair of a small amount of cash Monday. The clerk said the robber was a Latin in his 20s, 5-feet-6, 150 pounds, with brown hair and brown eyes.

$2,000 robbery

A 33-year-old Lion Oil Co. employe was robbed of nearly $2,000 in cash Monday afternoon as she got out of her car to make a deposit at the Bank of America at D Street and Euclid Avenue in Ontario.

Her name was Vedda Rae Valentine. The employe of the Bakersfield Oil Co. walked into the bank in tears about 1 p.m. She told officers at the bank that she had just gotten out of her car and put the money bag under her arm when a man came up behind her and grabbed the bag. She said the man told her not to turn around and keep walking.

Theater robbed

West End Sheriff's deputies were searching this morning for two men who robbed the Mission Drive-In Theater in Pomona.

Chris Miller, an employe, told deputies that two men, both armed with large, blue steel revolvers, walked up to the ticket booth about 11:10 p.m. Monday and demanded the money from the register.

The men took the money and fled on foot to a car hidden in the darkness. Miller said he chased the robbers in his car all the way to Fontana before he realized he had made a mistake.

Tax cuts to create jobs not the way

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Using tax cuts to create jobs will cost the government about six times as much per job as an expanded public employment program, says the chairman of the National Council on Employment Policy.

Charles Killingsworth, a professor at Michigan State University, presented the council's employment plan at a news conference here today.

He said that if adopted the plan would "bring us within striking distance of President-elect Carter's goal" of reducing the unemployment rate by 1.5 per cent in 1977.

The plan calls for expanding the present public employment program to provide at least one million jobs at an initial cost of about $5 billion a year. That would be 650,000 more jobs than the present level.

"This single action would reduce the national unemployment rate to 7 per cent or less within six months," Killingsworth stated.

The council, a nonprofit organization of academic experts funded by the U.S. Department of Labor and the Ford Foundation, also recommended that $2 billion be added to the public works program, which would initially create another 112,000 to 140,000 new jobs within 12 months, he said.

"The indirect effects of this expenditure would create an approximately equal number of jobs, for a total of roughly 250,000 jobs," Killingsworth said.

The council also recommended expanding manpower training funds by at least $1 billion, with part of the sum going to on-the-job training in private firms. And Killingsworth added that a small tax cut might be considered in addition to the spending increases.

Killingsworth said using tax cuts to stimulate jobs is expensive and the benefits are not likely to go to the geographical region and the labor force groups most affected by unemployment.

"The initial benefits of tax cuts obviously go only to those who pay federal income taxes — and this is mainly those who already have jobs," he said. He added that Congress is not likly to enact a tax cut quickly.

Terms of IMF loan to Britain eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Managers of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) have agreed to softened terms for a $3.9-billion loan to prop up the wobbly British economy.

But officials familiar with the arrangements reported today that a second line of defense for Britain's pound sterling almost certainly will have to await President-elect Carter's decision. That is for a big international system of credit to safeguard Britain's estimated $10 billion worth of sterling reserves from losing value to speculation.

One of the still-secret provisions of the IMF loan requires the British to cut back government spending and state-sponsored borrowing abroad. In other words, the British will be expected to try harder to balance their books even at the cost of lowered living standards and higher output.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey is due to tell the House of Commons on Wednesday just how he hopes to achieve this, where public spending will be cut, what public borrowing will be allowed.

Healey's announcement has been set one day before the expiration of a $5.3-billion emergency loan advanced by the United States, West Germany, France and others when the pound recently began sliding.

Britain drew less than $2 billion of those standby funds and so stabilized its money, at least temporarily. Now the British must begin paying it back at once.

Sources here said IMF and British negotiators agreed that government spending should be cut by roughly 1.5 billion pounds, or $2.4 billion.

That's about half of the IMF's original proposal for a cut in what is called "public sector borrowing."

WANTS JOB BACK — Miriam BenShalom, 28, was discharged as an Army Reserve drill instructor after she announced she was a homosexual. She claims the move constitutes illegal job discrimination and plans a fight to get back into the military.

Christmas Seal campaign to use coin containers

For the first time in its 70-year history, the Christmas Seal campaign will be augmented throughout Los Angeles County by the placement of 5,000 coin-collecting containers in retail stores.

The containers feature the picture of a 7-year-old girl and in her handwriting the message: "Please help the Christmas Seal people. I need them to help me."

Earl B. Smith, president of the sponsoring Lung Association of Los Angeles County, said the campaign adjunct was made possible by the relaxation of Los Angeles City Social Services regulations which previously had forbidden the use of such containers.

Smith said he expects the containers to "provide a tremendous boost" to the association's drive to raise $1.5 million to fight asthma, emphysema and other lung diseases.

Pensioners sentenced

FRESNO (AP) — The last of six elderly Fresno and Tulare County pensioners who pleaded guilty to selling firearms without a license has been sentenced to five days in jail here.

Federal Court Judge M.D. Crocker sentenced John W. Beene , 71, of Visalia, to a jail term beginning Nov. 22 and placed him on probation for a year.

Beene and the other pensioners who became known as "The Over The Hill Gang" were arrested last August by federal agents who broke up the wide ring involving the illegal sale of rifles and handguns.

All the others who pleaded guilty were either given short jail sentences, placed on probation or fined. Dick Bowman, 62, of Sanger, pleaded innocent and will stand trial

On campus

"Hunters" a documentary-type movie produced by the National Geographic Society and depicting the life and culture of bushmen in southern Africa's Kalahari Desert, will be presented by John Dwyer, assistant professor of history, at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Oldenborg Center's International Theater at POMONA COLLEGE. It is free and open to the public.

The movie, in color and 80 minutes long, was made in conjunction with John Marshall, who lived among the bushmen with his family. It follows a hunting party, armed with spears, tracking a giraffe for food. Village life is also recorded.

Persons interested in obtaining a job in an office may learn all the skills necessary in one semester at CITRUS COLLEGE, suggests Sylvia Emerick, business education faculty member who serves as instructor in the college's office occupations program.

By attending classes each weekday from 9 a.m. to noon, a student, at the completion of one semester, will have had the opportunity to discover his or her ability level and primary interest, Mrs. Emerick explained, and will be capable of filling a general office position at the entry level.

The office occupations program is offered in the spring semester which begins Jan. 31.

Classes are varied. They include accounting, business machine mathematics, business spelling and vocabulary, typing fundamentals, filing systems and office procedures.

Registration for the office occupations program and all other day classes is now open. Students new to the college must have a counseling appointment prior to registration. For additional information, persons may visit the Admissions Office, located in the Administration Building, or call 599-8339.

New Resources of PITZER COLLEGE, is now accepting applications for admission for the spring semester. Deadline for applications is Jan. 15. Spring semester classes begin Feb. 7.

In addition to a complete day-time program on over 25 different fields, Pitzer will offer 38 evening courses this spring, including three entry level seminars for students new to the program. These special courses are "Man and Society: East and West;" "Psychopathology and Crisis Intervention;" and a writing seminar.

Instituted in 1974, the New Resources program was designed to meet the special problems and needs of older students who want an academically challenging course of study leading to a bachelor's degree.

Students admitted to Pitzer through this program are eligible to enroll in regular Pitzer courses as well as courses at the other Claremont colleges. Curriculum alternatives include independent studies, seminars, colloquia and vocationally linked seminars and programs.

While requirements for graduation are the same as for other Pitzer students, different criteria are used in admissions procedures for New Resources students.

For more information on applying for admission to the New Resources program, persons may contact the Vice President's Office, Avery Hall, Pitzer College, or call 626-8511, ext. 3151.

Families are invited at 11 a.m. Santa Claus will arrive with his bag of gifts at 11:30 a.m.

Winter session openings exist at the mini-school which provides social and recreational activities for 4 and 5-year-old children.

Classes tentatively are scheduled Jan. 24 to continue 13 weeks. To participate, children must be 4 by Jan. 24. Proof of age is required.

There will be two classes of 30 children each. One will meet Mondays and Wednesdays and one Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

There is a registration fee of $7 plus a small donation for snacks. Instructors are Betty Folmer and Gladys Tipton.

Parents may register children Mondays through Fridays between 1 and 5 p.m. at the recreation office. The telephone number is 626-8571.

Parents and Teachers

FOOTHILL COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL in Claremont will hold a Christmas open house from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday for parents, friends, relatives and alumni of the school.

Classrooms will be decorated in the holiday spirit, each centering around a tree of delights made by the students. The children will sing carols in the Ordway Auditorium. In the school library, there will be books for the children to buy as Christmas gifts.

Christmas cookies, coffee and punch will be served throughout the evening.

PATHWAY CHRISTIAN SCHOOL will present its annual Christmas programs tonight and Wednesday night at 7:30.

Pre-school, kindergarten and first grade classes will present their programs tonight. The individual themes will be "Little Angels" for the pre-schoolers; "The Little Drummer Boy" for kindergarten; and "A Charlie Brown Christmas" for the first graders.

They will end their program with "We Wish You A Merry Christmas" in American sign language for the deaf.

On Wednesday, the second grade class will present "At The Sheep Fold." Third and fourth grade classes will join together for the presentation "Santa Claus' Happiness Makers." The fifth and sixth graders will also do a joint presentation of "The Christmas Story."

Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria following the programs.

The primary grades of MONTVUE SCHOOL will present a Christmas program at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Persons having Post cereal box tops or Campbell soup labels may turn them in prior to the evening program or during the regular school office hours.

Claremont board OKs pool pact

The Claremont school board has approved a three-year agreement with the city over joint use of the El Roble swimming pool, but the Claremont City Council is not expected to act on the pact until January.

Since the pool was built in 1958 the district and city have agreed on joint use of the pool.

The present three-year agreement expires Thursday, and the annual fee for the city to use the pool during the summer months has been $4,700.

Business Manager Charles Abbott said that although the district reduced labor costs with the installation of an automatic chemical injection unit, over-all costs have increased by 17 per cent over the past four years.

The agreement which the school board signed contains the same language as past agreements but reflects an increased fee of $5,900 a year for the next three years.

Forestation financed

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina will plant selected tree species in a general reforestation program over 250,000 acres throughout the country. The Inter American Development Bank approved a $30-million credit for the program, which will benefit approximately 3,000 producers who are dependent upon the forests for raw materials.

Taxpayers group chairman speaks

Howard Jarvis, state chairman of the United Organization of Taxpayers, will speak at the Glendora library Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Jarvis is a proponent of the property tax referendum sponsored by the United Organization of Taxpayers. He will discuss the importance of the referendum process in achieving tax reform.

Some 500,000 signatures are needed to place the referendum on the ballot, but once submitted to the voters of California, the issue can be voted into law without involvement by the state legislature or the signature of the governor.

Any registered voter may circulate the petition, and any registered voter may sign it. Property ownership is not a requirement. Higher property taxes are reflected in higher payments for renters as well as assessments for home owners.

Blank petitions will be available at the meeting for those interested in canvassing. They also may be obtained by calling 213 963-5183.

West's one heart bid is what may be described as a nuisance overcall. He does not expect that his side will play the hand unless it turns out that North doubles him and he has to struggle for his life at one heart doubled.

He hopes that maybe his bid will inhibit his opponents or that if North does become the declarer he will have told his partner what to lead. Most of the time these nuisance bids don't affect anything. This time the bid had a bad effect. It told South how to play the hand.

After West opened the six of hearts and East played the queen, South had a problem. He could duck and hold back his ace until the third lead of the suit. That duck play would insure his success provided East held the ace of diamonds. It would lead to failure if West held that all important card.

♣ A Q 4

Both vulnerable

West	North	East	South
			1 ♦
1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass	1 N. T.
Pass	3 N. T.	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead — 6 ♥

After the nuisance overcall South had no problem. It was almost a certainty that West would hold that missing ace. So South grabbed the first heart trick and knocked out the ace of diamonds. West was in and had no way to keep South from making four notrump. Actually, West made the desperation lead of the heart king and South made five odd.

Ask the Jacobys

A Michigan reader wants to know if you make a second bid with:

♠ K J x x ♥ x x ♦ x x ♣ A x x x x.

Your partner has opened one diamond and rebid one notrump after you responded one spade.

The answer is that you should pass. One notrump ought to be a very satisfactory contract. Your partner has shown a minimum type opening and there is no reason to explore further.

Reporter, 61, dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Peter Lisagor, one of the most respected reporters in the nation's capital and a political commentator known to millions of television viewers, died Friday of cancer. He was 61.

One of the last acts of his life was a message to people who had sent get-well wishes to the Public Broadcasting System's Washington Week in Review where he appeared regularly.

Baking powder is specially prepared to use in baking to make cakes, biscuits and muffins rise and become light.

All baking powders contain starch, baking soda (sodium bicarbonate) and certain acid-forming ingredients. The starch keeps the baking powder dry and the chemicals from acting until it is used.

Cooks add it to flour mixtures before baking them. When milk or water is added to cake or muffin mixes, the baking soda reacts with the acidforming ingredients to produce hundreds of tiny bubbles of carbon dioxide gas that bubble up through the batter during the baking. They puff up the batter, making it light and fluffy.

Baking powders do the work of yeast, which the baker uses to make bread dough rise. But baking powders act more quickly than yeast.

Sour milk and baking soda have the same rising effect on flour mixtures as baking powder and sweet milk or water.

Ex-husband retired or disabled

Divorced women not entitled to benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday approved the government's system of excluding divorced women from certain Social Security benefits paid to married women.

By a unanimous vote, the justices overturned a lower court decision that the system unconstitutionally discriminated against divorced women.

The case involved a section of the Social Security law which provides monthly payments to a married woman under age 62 whose husband retires or becomes disabled. The woman must have a minor child or a dependent child in her care to qualify for the benefits.

The same law provides benefits to divorced women only if they are over age 62 when their ex-husbands retire or become disabled.

A three-judge federal court in Illinois said the different treatment for wives and ex-wives amounted to an unconstitutional denial of due process of law. But the Supreme Court said Congress was within its rights when it enacted the system.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which appealed the lower court decision had estimated it would cost an additional $9 million a year to make the extra payments to divorced women under 62 with dependent children.

Writing for the court, Justice Potter Stewart said the section of the Social Security system which provides old age and disability insurance was not intended to be a welfare program for those most in need.

Instead, he wrote, "The primary objective was to provide workers and their families with basic protection against hardships created by the loss of earnings due to illness or old age."

The payment for wives was intended to help "a married woman already burdened with dependent children to meet the additional need created when her husband reaches old age or becomes disabled," the court said.

"Congress could rationally have decided that the resultant loss of family income, the extra expense that often attends illness and old age, and the consequent disruption in the family's economic well-being that may occur when the husband stops working justify monthly payments to a wife who together with her husband must still care for a dependent child," the court said.

The husband's disability or old age may cause hardships for wives which it would not cause for ex-wives, the court suggested.

"For instance," Stewart wrote, "a divorced woman need not forego work in order to stay at home to care for her disabled husband ... In short, divorced couples typically live separate lives."

The court acknowledged that elderly or disabled husband may be unable to continue alimony or child support payments to their ex-wives, but said Congress "was not constitutionally obligated to use the Social Security Act to subsidize support payments."

The court noted that divorced women, with or without dependent children, are eligible for monthly payments under other sections of the Social Security Act under certain circumstances.

The system was challenged by Helen de Castro who was denied benefits after her divorce because she was only 56.

Husband's surname a must for license

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday refused to decide whether a state can require a married woman to adopt her husband's surname before she can get a driver's license.

The justices let stand a ruling by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that Kentucky legally denied college instructor Sylvia Scott Whitlow a driver's license because she refused to adopt her husband's name.

The name-change issue is one which women's rights groups have cited as an example of how society harbors sex-based discrimination. Attorneys for Mrs. Whitlow said the Kentucky regulation was based on "old notions" of a husband's supremacy and a wife's dependent role in marriage.

Sylvia Scott Whitlow, a journalism instructor at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, continued to use her maiden name for all purposes following her marriage to Norman Van Tubergen in 1973.

When applying for a driver's license, however, she was confronted with an unwritten Kentucky regulation forbidding her to use her maiden name unless she legally "changed" her surname — in effect, restoring Whitlow as her legal name.

Mrs. Whitlow refused to do that, and has never obtained a driver's license.

In its 2-1 opinion, the circuit court relied on a 1972 Supreme Court ruling in which the justices upheld without hearing arguments a similar law in Alabama. The reasoning then was that "administrative convenience" justified a state agency's requiring a married woman to adopt her husband's surname.

In her appeal, Mrs. Whitlow argued that later Supreme Court decisions should take precedence over its 1972 Alabama ruling.

Kentucky officials urged the court not to consider Mrs. Whitlow's appeal. They said the unwritten regulation was based on common law and state custom.

"This is not a classification based on sex," the state argued, "but rather is a classification based on marital status with sex being merely a subclassification of that larger class."

L.V. business district may get major face lift in fall

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

La Verne's downtown business district will undergo a major redevelopment program starting probably next fall.

The City Council has unanimously voted to create a Community Redevelopment agency there and has instructed City Atty. Wayne S. Furth to prepare the necessary documents and ordinances.

The CRA will be empowered to freeze property taxes within the redevelopment area at present levels. All additional taxes would be used to pay for the improvements.

City Manager George Caswell told the council that "If we go ahead with this, we'll need to set the boundaries and appoint an advisory committee that would run the agency."

He said part of the process would be the sale of improvement bonds. The bonds would be retired from the new taxes turned over to the agency.

Formation of the redevelopment agency was recommended both by downtown merchants and the Chamber of Commerce.

The downtown merchants have long been concerned about their ability to keep up with new shopping centers which have been sprouting up along Foothill Boulevard for the past three years.

Announcement of the Alpha Beta Market, the downtown area's largest tenant, to close down Dec. 31, has brought the matter to a head.

Under the redevelopment program, the merchants could use tax money to improve the downtown district, to attract more business and to make the downtown property more valuable.

After the improvements are completed and the bonds are retired, the property would be returned to the city's normal tax rolls.

Wiggins waiting for arraignment in West End Jail

Donald G. Wiggins, 41, Ontario, was being held this morning in the West End Jail while Ontario police worked to secure a formal complaint against him.

He was being held on suspicion of four counts: possession of destructive devices, possession of high explosives, possession of machine guns and possession of stolen property.

Officers said Wiggins may be arraigned late this afternoon or early Wednesday in the West Valley Municipal Court on the charges if the complaint is obtained.

Wiggins owns property in Ontario, Pomona and Lancaster where tons of illegal arms and explosives have been discovered during the past two weeks.

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department has a 25-man team working round the clock to identify and inventory the items discovered by the officers.

Meanwhile, authorities said a man named David Edward Williamson, 31, was being sought for questioning about three separate batches of weapons and ammunition discovered ove the weekend in the mountainous Wrightwood area of western San Bernardino County.

"He is not a suspect, but he has information we want," said Lt. Bill Abernathie afer refusing to comment on reports that an informant had seen Williamson firing an automatic weapon near Wrightwood.

The weapons found over the weekend had been dumped over the side of mountain roads, as if by someone trying to get rid of them in a hurry.

Wiggins had been released Sunday on $15,000 bail from Los Angeles County Central jail, where he had been held on charges of possessing destructive devices and unauthorized possession of machine guns in connection with arms found in the Lancaster area.

But, after authorities dug up another arsenal at his Ontario home, police there placed him under arrest again. This time Wiggins was put in San Bernardino County central jail, charged with possession of machine guns, destructive devices, stolen property and explosives.

Wiggins was held on $50,000 bail for the new charges.

Right-wing literature, diatribes against various ethnic groups and military manuals found at some of the sites have led authorities to believe the weapons were buried by extremist paramilitary units.

To avoid possible special election

Bader to resign Pomona council post

Pomona City Councilman Charles Bader, an announced candidate for mayor of the city, said Monday night he will resign his seat on the council.

Bader said the resignation would take effect on the day following the municipal general election April 19.

The action will allow the city to conduct a special election to fill the remaining two years of Bader's term at the same time the general balloting is conducted — which will save the city thousands of dollars in extra election costs.

"As you all know I am running for mayor and I intend to be elected, which would then require a special election to fill the remainder of my term. I don't feel it is right for any councilman, or school board member, to expect the taxpayer to foot that kind of extra cost," said Bader.

A special election might cost as much as $18,000, said Bader.

City Attorney Patrick Sampson said Bader's submission of a letter of resignation today would allow the city to accept filing papers for Bader's 4th Councilmanic District seat in January and place the candidates on the April 19 ballot.

There would not be time, however, to qualify candidates for the March 8 primary ballot.

Bader's resignation guarantees at least one new member of the council following the 1977 election, with four seats on the five-member body now up for grabs.

In addition to Bader's district, the councilmanic seats held by Benjamin Ochoa and Adrian Wright are also up for election, along with the mayor's post.

Ochoa has announced he will seek re-election. Wright has not announced his intentions, although it is believed he will seek a new four-year term.

Besides Bader, Mayor Ray Lepire has announced he will seek another two-year term as mayor, and former mayor Richard Brownell has announced he will also seek the post.

The official filing period for mayor and Councilmanic Districts 2 and 3 is now open and will continue through Dec. 30 at 12 p.m.

Property taxes: Who's hurting more?

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Ronald Reagan once said taxes should hurt.

Well, residents of the West End of San Bernardino County may have been hurting last week when they paid their first installments on this year's property taxes. But not as much as their neighbors in Los Angeles County.

Homeowners in Chino, Montclair, Upland and Ontario this year will pay less taxes than residents of Pomona, La Verne, Claremont, San Dimas and Walnut.

The average total tax rate for San Bernardino County is $11.84 per $100 of assessed valuation. Chino's total rate ranges from $11.60 to $12.45; Montclair's is about $12.70; Upland's ranges between $12.16 and $12.63; and Ontario's rate is about $12, although some Ontarians pay much more.

Tax rates vary for residents within a single city because of different taxing districts. Some are within different school districts, while others pay in different water or flood control districts, according to Verlin Miller, assistant assessor for San Bernardino County.

As announced previously by the Los Angeles County Assessor's Office, Pomona residents will pay a toal tax rate this year of $13.95; La Verne residents, $14.16; Claremont residents, $14.81; San Dimas residents, $13.93; and Walnut residents, $14.04.

Tax rates for West End residents have generally stayed the same as last year or rose slightly, while taxes dropped for all neighboring Los Angeles County cities.

Still, the taxes for Pomona and Claremont residents for example did not drop enough to catch the West End rates.

Any tax cuts were offset, anyway, by increases in the assessed valuation of homes which ranged from 10 to 100 per cent in Los Angeles County. Assessment increases in the West End averaged about 19 per cent.

Upland, Los Serranos officials disapprove of housing act funds

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Officials from Upland and Los Serranos voiced strong opposition Monday to part of San Bernardino County's proposed application for federal Housing and Community Development Act funds.

The opposition came during the first public hearing scheduled by the county Board of Supervisors on its bid for about $6 million in federal funds for 1977-78.

Supervisors also are considering tentative plans for funding for 10 cities and various unincorporated areas for the years 1978-79 and 1979-80.

The board took no action Monday, but is expected to move for final approval of the application on Jan. 11 after a second public hearing.

Upland and Montclair are represented in the bid for funding under a joint powers agreement with the county. They have received funding in two previous years under the Housing and Community Development Act.

Cucamonga and Los Serranos are represented as "target" areas for home repair programs and other assistance for low-income areas.

Upland city officials expressed "strong opposition" to revisions in the coming three years of the grant program. In a letter to supervisors, the city noted its allocation of funds would be reduced by $150,000 to $200,000 "from what it would have received under the current formula."

Michael Matlock, administrative assistant for City of Upland, said the city assumes unincorporated target areas will receive more funds than cities this time. "We believe the county is overemphasizing the importance of low-income areas..."

Upland is scheduled to receive $381,225 in 1977-78,und about $211,000 in each of the succeeding years.

Pomona employes get bonus

A one-year agreement providing Pomona miscellaneous employes with a $350 bonus was approved by the Pomona City Council Monday night.

The pact, culminating nearly eight months of talks, negotiations and hearings, will cost the city $215,000. Financing of the wage hike will be done through use of federal grant funds, said City Administrator Jerrold Gonce.

Two Pomona children die suddenly

Two young Pomona children died suddenly and within minutes of each other Monday morning in separate incidents and autopsies have been ordered to determine the reason, police reported.

At 9:38 Jason Charlton, 3, collapsed in his home at 1597 S. Reservoir St. and firemen were unable to revive him. He was pronounced dead at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The victim's mother, Susan Charlton, said Jason had complained of a sore throat earlier.

A few minutes later at 2296 Kellogg Park Drive, Tracy Ben Buford, 3 months old, was found unconscious in his crib. Firemen were unable to revive him and he too, was pronounced dead at the hospital.

The baby's mother, LaDonna Christian, 20, said the child had had a cold.

Where's concern for victims?

One of the arguments advanced against the execution of Utah murderer Gary Mark Gilmore is that the state should not make itself a party to suicide.

As everybody in the world knows by now, Gilmore has said again and again and again that he wants to die. It is more than that, however.

According to a number of people, including a psychiatrist who studied him, the two wholly unnecessary murders Gilmore committed in the course of robbing a gas station and motel show that he is possessed by a strong death wish. It was, they tell us, a clear case of "suicide by murder."

The implication is that were it not for the existence of capital punishment — on the books, anyway — Gilmore would not have been motivated to take the lives of two innocent people.

Of all the arguments against capital punishment, this is one of the most curious and dubious. At the very least, it has served to confuse further the already confused question of what society may or may not do to protect itself from the sick or vicious ones in its midst.

It is worthwhile recalling a real suicide that was reported in the news a few months ago, though it received nothing approaching the attention that has been given Gilmore.

This was the double suicide of an elderly couple in the Bronx section of New York City, who left a note saying that they preferred to die rather than to continue living with the fear and terror that seem to have become the norm in that community.

Where were all those who later expressed so much concern about the life of a self-confessed murderer? We know of not one who stood up and cried, "What kind of society is this in which such a thing is possible?"

If ever a society was party to suicide, it was in this case.

But it goes beyond the tragic deaths of one old man and woman. By our inability to deal with the problem of crime, either through indifference or a sense of helplessness, we are conspiring in the ultimate suicide of society itself.

The Bronx — where fear of the mugger, the burglar, the rapist have become a daily fact of life, where decent people are afraid to walk the streets even by day, and at night barricade themselves behind double and triple-locked doors and barred windows — may be an extreme example, an aberration, but it is a warning of where we may be headed in this land of the free and home of the brave.

Where is our outrage?

The opponents of capital punishment claim that society brutalizes itself when it permits the execution of murderers. The actual brutality inflicted on society, not only by murderers but by lesser criminals, seems not to bother them.

When this country is made safe for old men and women, when our first concern is for the victims of crime rather than the criminal, and when the punishment for crime is swift and sure and fair, then we will be able to indulge in the luxury of worrying about the soul of a Gary Gilmore.

Abuse in conversation

We will be accused of linguistic pettifogging, but something that annoys us to no end is a growing tendency among professorial types to use the initials "i.e." indiscriminately as an all-purpose conjunction.

The abuse is most noticeable in conversation, where a liberal sprinkling of "eye-eez" supposedly signifies snappy erudition. More often than not, however, i.e. is used when the speaker really means e.g.

I.e., of course, is the abbreviation of the Latin words meaning "that is," while e.g. is the abbreviation for "for example." But apparently it's possible to get through four years of college and even earn a postgraduate degree without learning the distinction.

As for vix. ("namely") and ergo ("therefore"), you don't hardly encounter them no more.

Come to think of it, though, we'd rather hear "eye-ee" than "you know."

Griswold's 5 story tower

Dear Editor:

At a meeting of the Claremont City Architectural Review Commission, Griswold's unveiled renderings of their proposed 3 Story 97 Unit Hotel addition recently approved by the city. Attached to the hotel was a 5 Story 360 Degree Observation Tower which was not on the previously approved plans.

This feature as well as the hotel expansion will cause additional traffic, safety, parking, privacy, sight and noise problems to the nearby residents. Many of them sought protection from the city but their concerns were given minimal attention. Property values will suffer as a result!

If public support and concern are great enough, we can initiate legal action to delay and even halt further illegal expansion of the GOSH Complex.

This is the last chance to try to provide protection to the residents. Minimum commitments of $25, more if possible, are needed now. If not enough support is available, the action may not be taken.

How long can we allow the city of Claremont to sacrifice the legitimate rights of homeowners as an inducement to commercial enterprise. Even if your property is not now threatened, it may be in the future. Please join this effort by:

Pope denounces Mafia

WASHINGTON — Inside the Mafia, the crime lords make a show of observing Roman Catholic rituals. But one of their most implacable foes is Pope Paul VI, who has called upon a U.S. congressional delegation to crack down on the Mafia with "severe legal measures."

The congressmen, led by House Narcotics Chairman Lester Wolff (D.-N.Y.), were granted an audience last month with the pontiff in his private Vatican quarters.

Declared Pope Paul emphatically: "There emerges more clearly than ever the need for severe legal measures to be taken against those who traffic systematically in drugs for the sake of profit."

The pontiff, his frail voice growing more animated as he spoke, denounced the dope dealers. "The time has come," he declared, "to unite all the powers at our disposal in order to put an end to this scourge that is such a real danger for . . . humanity."

After the audience, the pope visited privately with Rep. Wolff. They exchanged views with all the zeal of a couple of narcotics experts planning a worldwide crackdown.

According to a transcript of the conversation, Wolff said: "Your Holiness, we have found that one method of stopping the drug traffic is to reduce the amount of drugs that are produced at their source by the individual country."

"Do you have a contact here in Italy?" asked the pontiff.

"Yes," said Wolff. "We have been meeting with your drug enforcement people, with all the various agencies of your police."

The pope said he would like to be kept informed of Wolff's work "in order to be able to coordinate forevermore the activities you have begun."

The pope added that "ecclesiastical efforts in various countries" are being made to fight drugs, but "these are not sufficiently well coordinated."

Footnote: Peter Bensinger, the U.S. drug enforcement chief, accompanied the congressmen during their call upon Pope Paul. Bensinger was so impressed that he sent a personal cable to his 131 offices around the world reporting what the pope had said. "All DEA employes should be greatly encouraged," cabled Bensinger, "by the strong statement made by the Holy Father, condemning drug abuse in the world, and the offering of his personal assistance."

BACKSTAGE BROUHAHA — Few events produce as much exhilaration as a full-fledged Washington feud. Such a brouhaha has erupted betwen a powerful congressman and a high commissioner.

It began with the appearance of Reclamation Commissioner Gil Stamm on Capitol Hill recently to testify about the Teton Dam disaster, which killed 11 people and washed away about $1 billion worth of Idaho real estate.

A disgruntled Stamm was hauled before the House Conservation subcommitte, which is headed by Rep. Leo Ryan (D.-Calif.). As he entered by hearing room, Stamm was greeted by some fellow bureaucrats, who asked how he was bearing under the pressure of a congressional inquiry.

"Well, I will tell you one thing," he reportedly snorted, loud enough to be heard around the room, "I'm not losing any sleep at night!"

The remark annoyed Ryan, who included it in the subcommittes report. When Stamm read the report, he hit the ceiling. Angrily, he fired off a private letter to the congressman.

"I was disturbed," complained Stamm, "first, to find in a hearing report a statement that was allegedly overheard in a private conversation before the start of the hearings, and second, I object because neither the statement nor the quotation is true."

The congressman, equally ruffled, returned the fire. "You did make such a statement," wrote Ryan, "and not in a private conversation, but loudly and emphatically to a large group in the hearing room.

"I instructed that it should be included in the report because it goes to the heart of the matter — the Bureau's nonreceptivity to constructive criticism and reform."

Still fuming, Ryan continued to scold the commissioner: "Mr. Stamm, I believe the nation would be better served if you directed your energies towards improving the practices of the Bureau of Reclamation."

WASHINGTON WHIRL — President-elect Jimmy Carter has promised an open administration when he takes over the federal government. Yet when his transition teams began preparing for the Democratic changeover, they received stern warnings that they would be held responsible if any of their papers leaked to the press.

The AFL-CIO has been agitating behind the scenes for the return of former Defense Secretary James Schlesinger. A curious, mutual admiration has developed betwen the grumpy, cigar-chomping AFL-CIO leader George Meany and the brilliant, professorial Schlesinger. Insiders explain that Schlesinger was the only senior official who bothered to consult the AFL-CIO during the last days of Richard Nixon's administration. The ferociously anti-Communist Meany also supported Schlesinger's attempt to alert the nation to the Soviet military build-up.

— State Department sources say Secretary Henry Kissinger has concluded that it is in the best interests of the United States to cut its ties with Taiwan and assume full diplomatic relations with the Chinese mainland. President-elect Jimmy Carter has given no hint, however, whether he agrees.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

Now comes the time when our newly elected politicians are beginning to worry about how they are going to make good on their campaign rhetoric. With most of them, of course, the big problem is: "What do I do now in order to keep my promise to lower taxes?" — But one successful office seeker figures he has a logical answer that should, temporarily at least, keep the natives quiet. Because they have already been preconditioned by modern merchandising practices to withstand financial pain in small doses, he is going to introduce a bill which would allow them to pay their taxes on the installment plan in 12 easy monthly payments.

Motor vehicle dept. woes

By EARL G. WATERS

Further evidence of the crumbling of Gov. Jerry Brown's administration has been provided in the report on the Department of Motor Vehicle operations prepared by the Joint Legislative Audit Committee.

Already reeling from the management collapses in the state hospitals and foulups in the prepaid health plans, and facing further battles over the raging controversies involving future highway programs, the criticism of the motor vehicle agency management does little to enhance Brown's image as an executive.

Perhaps the realization of this caused department director Herman Sillas to somewhat angrily react to the report attacking it as both inaccurate and misleading.

As released by committee chairman Assemblyman Mike Cullen the report accused the department of furnishing conflicting sets of figures to the governor and the legislature. The report found the department overcharging local governments some $9 million last year and was failing to charge sufficient fees to cover costs for the driver license program.

In his defense Sillas claims he has returned $12.7 million of allocated funds in the past two years. What that means is the department was overbudgeted and didn't spend all of its money.

The public will soon find out whether the Cullen report is accurate or not, for another study is being readied for next month by the Little Hoover Commission. While details of that report remain a closely guarded secret until it has been approved by the commission, certain facts are public record and knowledge.

The department's budget is currently around $130 million, an increase of near 60 per cent in five years. With some 8,000 employes 67 per cent of its budget is payroll and related costs. Its overall revenues are about $750 million with half of that being apportioned to cities and counties. The remaining surplus over its operational costs support the highway patrol and certain other agencies designated by the Legislature such as the Air Resources Board. Whatever is left over goes into the highway fund.

According to Legislative Analyst Alan Post the failure to raise driver license fees for the past 20 years has resulted in a $14 million annual deficit in that program which is costing $28 million. Legislation to increase driver license fees from the present $3 up to $10 for new and $5 for renewals, authored by Assemblyman Bill Craven last year, was defeated.

Sillas has expressed opposition to increased fees. He says since the licenses are used for identification in transacting personal business the costs should be shared by all citizens. His reasoning seems faulty, for such use should make it all the more reason the costs should be fully paid by the licensee rather than being shared by vehicle owners through registration fees.

An important finding which should be made by the Little Hoover study is that although the state invested millions in computer systems on the premise it would reduce the department payroll by eliminating the need for massive file banks of individually maintained records, the files are still retained and operative.

More significant is that while the management of the department should be fairly simple since it is almost entirely a straightaway records keeping agency, Sillas has distracted attention from the department's prime mission by the introduction of "do-gooder" programs not authorized by statute.

These include child care for employees and patrons, open house affairs, women's exchange where clerical workers sit in executive chairs for a day, multi-language printing of driver manuals, community counseling, weight reduction for employees, and mural decorating of buildings. Altogether there are a score of such extraneous activities.

The diversion of attention and responsibility from the basic departmental functions to such social reform and welfare programs is bound to take its toll on the overall departmental efficiency.

What people say

"This cozy world which we were told would go on forever, where full employment would be guaranteed by a stroke of the Chancellor's pen, cutting taxes and deficit spending, is gone."

More working than ever

It happens every month: The headline writers make certain that we feel sorry for ourselves by bannering the newest "unemployment" statistics.

And their idea of the most significant statistic is this: "Unemployment, 8.1 percent — Highest in 19 Months!"

And that ominous sounding percentage elicits all manner of dire prognoses from economists and desperation recommendations from politicians.

And hardly anybody notices that below that headline — way down in the fine print of the Labor Department report — is the "rest of the story": "There are more American workers working than ever before in our nation's history!"

Noise makes news.

We are accustomed to reporting the accidents that do happen, not the numbers of travelers who get where they're going — safely.

We are accustomed to reporting — and expecting — each month's accounting of the number of American workers working to emphasize "unemployment."

But an unfortunate byproduct of this emphasis is that the scary sound of an "unemployment increase" tends to stimulate demands for drastic remedial measures which treat the symptoms and ignore the ailment.

There are now 81.1 million American workers working. Never before in our nation's history have there been this many American workers working.

The seeming paradox of more "employment" and more "unemployment" at the same time results from nothing more complicated than the fact there are more of us.

The normal population increase plus immigration, legal and illegal, has caused our population to mushroom.

Our nation's total number of unemployed — 7,769,000 — is approximately the same number as the 8 million persons who are presently in the United States illegally.

Yet within hours of the Labor Department's monthly audit — "Unemployment up — to 8.1 percent" — both AP and UPI speculated that these figures would force Carter to hypo our economy.

Thomas Lance, who will head the Office of Management and Budget for Carter, announced "a tax cut is a virtual certainty."

Carter adviser, Andrew Brimmer, predicted "a tax rebate early next year."

Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office, urged a tax cut.

It is noteworthy and commendable that President-elect Carter was not stampeded. He said the economy may need some stimulus next year; said he'll consider it when the time comes.

But in all the reactions — not one public acknowledgement that a major root cause of our continuing increase in unemployment and welfare is that too many people are inviting themselves to move in on us — and, however unwelcome, to stay.

An overdose victim first needs to have his stomach pumped!

Ann Landers

Paying motel too, too much

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem that has destroyed my desire to live or work. For 20 years I have been a dedicated husband and father. My relationship with my wife was built on love and devotion. It's almost as if we have been on a honeymoon all these years.

My wife was a virgin when we married and I would have trusted her anywhere with anyone. My confidence was completely shattered six months ago when I discovered by accident that she was carrying on an affair with another man. This was bad enough, but when I learned she was paying for the motel rooms with the money I worked so hard to earn, it was more than I could stand.

My wife has begged me to forgive her — promised it will never happen again, but I am so hurt I just can't seem to forgive and forget as you have advised so often in your column. I haven't made love to her in six months and I don't want anyone else.

The only way our marriage will ever get back to where it was is if my wife goes before our minister and renews the vows she had broken. In order for this to have real meaning she would have to offer to do it on her own. I don't want the idea to come from me. You could help us both by printing this letter and making a few comments. Sign me — Needing Assistance

Dear Needing: If an idea is a good one, what difference does it make where it comes from? If your wife sees this column she'll KNOW it came from you. So what?

I strongly recommend that you renew your vows TOGETHER. This procedure is not uncommon on anniversaries. Let the past bury its dead or you'll never have peace of mind.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a ten-year-old girl who has never written to you before because I thought I was too young. Well now I have a serious problem and I may still be too young but I am writing anyway.

I am worried about a neat boy in my room at school. Whenever I look at him he starts to eat paper and erasers. The teacher says it is because he likes me and he is just showing off. I am afraid if he keeps this up he will get sick and die and it will be my fault. What should I do about this problem? — Worried Girl

Dear Girl: Nothing. Don't reward his crazy behavior by letting him know you are worried. If he finds out he might start to drink ink.

Be pleasant when he acts normal. When he goes in for the funny stuff pay no attention to him whatsoever.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please settle another family argument? You'd think the answer to this question could be looked up somewhere but we can't find it. Please tell us who pays for the groom's gold wedding band when there's a double-ring ceremony? Thank you. — Uninformed

Dear Un: The bride.

Pets like pets of their own

Used to know a lady who every Christmas gave her beloved poodle a pet of its own, a rubber puppy or a stuffed kitten or toy turtle. Some thought she was a little weird. But the animal psychologists say no. Pets love pets of their own. In fact, they're convinced lonely cats have gone so far as to dream up imaginary mice. And solitary dogs have been thought to have fallen in love, as it were, with hamsters, canaries, even Barbie dolls.

Maybe you've heard that 63 per cent of the work in typing is done with three fingers, but can you identify those three fingers? No, not bourbon. The first finger of the right hand and the first and second fingers of the left.

CASHEWS

Q. "How come cashews weren't named on that list of most popular snack nuts?"

A. Suspect it's because most of them are grown in Africa, then sent to India to be shelled by hand, and finally shipped here. Makes them pretty expensive.

In Bangkok, Thailand, it's against the law for a couple in a motion picture theater to kiss.

There's no trick at all to grinding up chicken feathers so finely that they can be eaten by people for breakfast. In fact, scholars at the University of Geroria made cookies out of them. Tasty, they said. Maybe so, don't know. Chickens are such filthy little beasts that those processors certainly will have to find a way to clean the feathers. Who knows where they've been? For the nonce, I'll stick to the regular breakfast.

FIRST ALARM CLOCK

In China, a "joss" is a religious image, and a "jos stick" is an incense punk that's burned in front of a joss. Or so the big book at hand reveals. This comes up because a fact collector reports that the world's first alarm clock was joss stick. An ancient Chinese put such a punk between his toes, lit it, then slept until the hot coal burned down to wake him up.

Our Language man says certain hair-splinters insist there's no such thing as a United States penny, only a cent. The penny, they aver, is a British coin.

The plastic people now are putting out trash bags impregnated with the strong scent of lemons and garbage cans that indefinitely give off the scent of pine needles. That's good. More manufacturers should accent their wares with counter fragrances. Why not footballs that smell like hyacinths? And typewriters with the invitational reek of gin? And TV sets that continually emit the aroma of a violent trout on the hook. As for snowshovels, they ought to smell like hot buttered popcorn perceived from the prone position beside an indoor fireplace.

Dr. Miller

Torn between two choices

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm presenting a friend's canary with a new home for Christmas. I'm torn between two possible choices. One, a very exotic bamboo cage, and the other a flashy, fancy gold cage. Which do you think Charlie would pick for himself? I'd really like to get the one that would appeal to him most. — U.A.

DEAR U.A.: Charlie's choice would probably be neither of the above. He doesn't figure to favor the fancy cage, his main interest being in one that allows him plenty of light and room. It should also be one that's safe and easy to clean. Wooden cages tend to be dark and hard to keep spic and span. Many fancy cages are too cramped and may have odd-angled corners where wires coming together at angles can catch canaries' claws or feet. The best indoor bird house is simple in design and spacious. Those favoring fancy frills for birds should be sure ornamentation is outside the cage and doesn't functionally interfere with it.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Does a growing guinea pig getting good food need anything extra, like vitamins? — G.A.

DEAR G.A.: If the food is "good enough," no. Often, though, there's difficulty in determining that very point. In my own practice, I recommend pediatric G.P.'s receive a multiple vitamin supplement, particularly one containing Vitamin C. (Not all of them do.) Remember guinea pigs, even as you and I, are prone to scurvy unless Vitamin C is provided.

DEAR DR. MILLER: How far is it safe to ship a new puppy? — L.W.

DEAR L.W.: Depends. In what? How? How old is the puppy? The younger it is, the more hazardous the trip. Undesirable effects range from psychological trauma and/or physical damage up to death. The younger it is, the more susceptible to hypothermia (chilling), hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) and to gastrointestinal or lung inflamation. It's difficult to safely ship a yet-unweaned puppy anywhere. The newly-weaned, with proper shipping container and good care along the route, may make it on a few hours trip, but the older the puppy is, the better. No puppy should be sent unless it has been inspected by a veterinarian and pronounced in good health, and been at least partially protected by some kind of vaccine against viral disease, particularly distemper.

Devil's Classmates assailed

Fat friends aren't born.

They're built and molded out of gentle lumps of submissiveness by a group I call the Devil's Classmates.

The DCs prey upon the weak, spread ugly rumors about cottage cheese and have never known a fat Monday in their lives. They pretend to be your friend, but refuse a dessert at their house and you'll never be asked back. During the holiday season, they come out of the woodwork.

At Thanksgiving, I casually mentioned I was on a diet. The Devil's Classmates hit me with all the ammunition they had.

First, Wanda, who is built like a piece of lint, stood over me and blubbered, "Have another gravy sandwich . . . or I'll have to throw it out." (The guilt approach.)

Then Fern whispered in my ear, "You mean you're not going to try my sugar-layered torte that I slaved over all morning?" (The rejection number.)

Finally my mother, who "made me a plate" in the evening that would have fed California for a year, warned, "Eat something or you're going to be sick." (The scare-them-to-death routine.)

They've been at work ever since. Marj's little boy — the one with the broken leg who is hobbling around on a crutch — appeared at my door selling Christmas peanut brittle.

My sister-in-law sent her annual fruitcake with the cryptic message, "If you don't want it, give it to a good person."

My best friend plied me with chip dip and coaxed, "You can get too thin, you know — especially at your age."

And even my kids look at me plaintively and whimper, "Mom, can you eat the rest of my fudge cake?"

Lucky for me I'm on to all their tricks, including the soothsayer who swears that carrots cause blindness and skim milk gives you bad skin.

Last night at a party everyone was gathered around a chafing dish of calories when a man next to me handed me a potato chip and said, "There isn't a woman on canvas in the Louvre Museum under 155 pounds."

I knew he was a Devil's Classmate . . . but what the heck, I'm only human.

Dr. Lamb

Anxiety hikes blood pressure

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am one of those people who becomes very anxious during visits to the doctor's office, and my blood pressure goes way up.

I have been trained to take my own blood pressure, and consistently get normal readings. Also, over the past several years I have been examined by four different doctors who tell me that I am in excellent health and not to worry about this reaction. However, I have been refused employment for a job that I wanted because the doctor who gave me the pre-employment physical would not accept the statement of any previous doctor. He stated that I had "essential hypertension."

I am due for a complete checkup, but do not have a physician in the community where I now reside. How do I convince a new (to me) doctor, or a doctor who gives me an employment or insurance physical of the true nature of this condition without seeming to be uncooperative? I cannot afford to take the hospitalization tests again and again which I have already taken several times before. Your advice on this matter would be greatly appreciated.

DEAR READER — You do have a problem. Your condition is properly called "vascular hyper reactor" not essential hypertension. The difference is as you have described your case, high readings under stress and normal readings under normal circumstances. There is no good evidence that individuals who are vascular hyper reactors have a significantly increased rate of persistent high blood pressure later in life.

I would suggest that you keep a log of your blood pressure on arising and again in the evening when getting ready for bed. With your knowledge of your case and your record your new doctor will probably understand. After you get to know him well enough you may stop having this reflex reaction to office blood pressure readings. Too often people with your response get put on high blood pressure medicines that they should not be taking. Medicine to lower your blood pressure when it is already normal is not helpful to say the least.

Sometimes a person can demonstrate normal blood pressure by simply relaxing in the examining room for awhile and letting the nurse take the pressure at intervals until you have settled down.

The insurance companies and employment examinations are another problem. The best you can do is present them with your other medical records or a statement from your doctor documentating your normal pressures and normal test results.

If this fails I would suggest asking your doctor to refer you to a well known medical center to see a specialist in cardiology who has a well known name. A consultation with such an individual and a record of his findings will be hard for a person of lesser professional stature to dispute. Most insurance companies and potential employers would accept such a record — particularly if documenting records are offered if needed — such as test results, electrocardiograms and X rays.

Be sure and stop drinking caffeine-containing drinks such as coffee and tea before any examination. To give you more information on blood pressure I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8. Others who want this information can send 50 cents along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Find power through prayer

Some time ago I was in Boston, Mass. and again saw that massive statue of one of Boston's greatest citizens, Phillip Brooks. He is best remembered as the author of the famous Christmas Carol, "O Little Town of Bethlehem." He was also one of the great preachers in the history of the American Church.

During the prime of his years, a skeptical newspaper reporter sought an interview with him, but he was consistently turned down. Dr. Brooks would always say, "I'm too busy to take time to talk to reporters about myself." But the persistent newspaperman was determined to "discover the real Phillip Brooks," and expose him to the press and the public. When he learned that the dignified doctor had booked passage to Europe, this self-appointed detective made a reservation for himself, too.

Stealthily he followed and observed the distinguished clergyman. The astute reporter noted Dr. Brooks often ate late in the evening. So one night, during the hour that Dr. Brooks normally was in the dining room, the determined writer furtively slipped down the stairway to the level of the Bishop's cabin, plotting to enter his secluded room and check his private papers.

Quietly he pressed against the cabin door. What luck! It was unlocked! As silently as a criminal he opened the door, only to see the great clergyman on his knees with his back to the door. His head was bowed in clasped hands as he prayed out loud, "Oh Lord, give me power; Oh Lord, give me power!"

"I closed the door," the reporter wrote, "for I had discovered the real Phillip Brooks! I had discovered the secret of his powerful life."

Now let me give my personal testimony. Few people know greater peace of mind than I know today. The key to the peace, poise and inner power of my life is prayer! Through prayer I have discovered God's plan for my life! I have watched mountain after mountain move under the power of prayer.

Talk to God. Discover for yourself the power available to you as you believe and pray.

Raiders are a remarkable team

The Oakland Raiders are indeed a truly remarkable organization.

The Raiders not only have the best record (13-1) of any team in the Super Bowl tournament which begins this weekend. But they've accomplished it with an offensive line and alignment that was, of necessity, completely rebuilt during the exhibition season. And without their best running back.

When the Raiders opened the NFL season, three of the starting front four were missing as was the number one reserve.

On the sidelines with injuries that took them out for the season were starting defensive end Horace Jones (knee), starting defensive tackle Art Thoms (knee) and number one reserve defensive tackle Kelvin Korver (torn shoulder muscles).

The other starting defensive end, Tony Cline, had not recovered from knee surgery and was waived across the bay to the San Francisco 49ers.

Joining those stalwart defenders on the sidelines for the season was fullback Marv Hubbard (shoulder operation).

Coach John Madden took the remaining starter from the defensive line, tackle Otis Sistrunk, stuck him with big John Matuszak and Dave Rowe. Then he switched from the usual pro 4-3-4 defense to a 3-4-4.

All three of the "down" linemen thus were obtained via trades with other clubs.

Sistrunk a gift

Sistrunk was a "gift" from the Rams. The sensation of the 1972 training camp, Sistrunk came to Oakland along with a fourth round draft choice for the Raiders' third round selection.

Rowe came to Oakland from San Diego for a draft choice in 1975. Matuszak came in a deal this year.

With Hubbard sidelined, Mark Van Eeghen, a third-year player from Colgate, took over and rushed for over a thousand yards. Veteran Carl Garrett came in a deal with the New York Jets.

So the patched together Raiders then went out and beat everybody except New England. The Patriots walloped Oakland, 48-17, at New England in the fourth game of the season.

And that brings up an interesting point.

Despite an incredible record the last 10 years (108 wins, only 25 losses and seven ties in 140 games), that includes a league championship (AFL) and eight AFC Western Division titles, Oakland is a stunning 0-8 in playoff games on the road!

The Raiders won the AFL championship in 1967 (defeating Houston in Oakland) then lost to Green Bay in Super Bowl II in Miami.

Since then Oakland has won the AFL (and then AFC) Western Division title every year but 1971 (when an 8-4 record wasn't good enough).

But in trying for the AFL or AFC championship, the Raiders have lost away games at New York (1968), Kansas City ('69), Baltimore ('70), Pittsburgh ('72), Miami ('73) and Pittsburgh again in 1974 and 1975.

A rematch with New England Saturday in Oakland in round one of the playoffs gives the Raiders the opportunity to avenge their only loss. But victory over the Patriots will bring them up against their old nemesis, the Steelers, or powerful Baltimore.

The door is open

The difference this year is that Oakland's 13-1 record, best of any team, assures it of again playing at home. Thus the door to Super Bowl XI in the Rose Bowl, Jan. 9, is open without having to risk the treachery of the road.

On the other hand, the Rams have to face the team (the Cowboys) that eliminated them in 1973 (27-16 at Dallas) and 1975 (37-7 at the Coliseum).

If they manage to defeat Dallas at Dallas Sunday, their probable opponent will be the Minnesota Vikings at Minnesota. The Vikings host Washington Saturday.

All the Vikings have done is eliminate the Rams in 1974 (14-10) in Minnesota and back in 1969 (23-20 at Minnesota) when George Allen was coach.

Under Allen, the Rams also were eliminated at Green Bay (28-7) in 1967. So the Angelenos haven't been any great shakes on the road in playoff games either. And both Dallas and Minnesota have been jinxes during the regular season as well as in the playoffs.

Since 1968, the Rams are 2-4 against Dallas overall and have lost the last three in a row (exhibition games not counted). Facing the Vikings, the Angelenos are only 2-5 overall. So you can understand the trepidation among Ram followers when faced with the prospect of playing either Minnesota or Dallas in a "money" game.

ROSE BOWL IS NEXT

Coach John Robinson and quarterback Vince Evans are all smiles as USC opened practice for the Rose Bowl Monday afternoon. Trojans will play Michigan in Jan. 1 classic.

Pac-10 takes Arizona look

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — There was joy in Arizona after the mighty Pacific-8 cordially invited the University of Arizona and Arizona State to join the prestigious athletic conference.

"We're naturally very delighted with the invitation," said Dr. John P. Schaefer, Arizona president. "I personally believe this offer is a major opportunity to the University of Arizona in terms of its athletic programs."

And at Arizona State: "Naturally we are very pleased," said ASU president John Schwada. "We feel we will be a valuable addition to that conference and we will give the invitation full consideration."

The invitations, relayed to newsmen Monday by UCLA Chancellor Charles E. Young, are saddled with some conditions, but they appear reasonable. Young said the invitations will be open until May 1, 1977, the next scheduled conference meeting.

The move was expected for some time, although there was opposition from northern schools who apparently feared that if Arizona and California campuses teamed up, their six votes could shift the balance of power. The "Pac-10" will include, in addition to the Arizona schools, UCLA, Southern California, Stanford, University of California, Oregon, Oregon State, Washington and Washington State.

California's athletic director, Dave Maggard, said the invitations probably saved the conference.

"There might have been a breakup of the conference," he said after the decision was announced. "The threat of USC pulling out was very real, and UCLA might have followed suit."

Young would not speculate as to what had changed the minds of those schools in opposition. But he said they he felt they had "reached the conclusion that, regardless of any reservations they might have, that in the long run the best interests of the institutions involved was to move to expand..."

Young also conceded that there was a possibility of legal action if the two schools defect from their current association with the Western Athletic Conference.

"Our understanding is that some or all of the members of the WAC conference...take the position that conference approval of conference games constitutes a kind of contract," he said.

The two schools offer the Pac-8 a flourishing rivalry — and some powerful competition — in football, basketball and baseball.

In fact, Arizona, with a 7-0 record, is ranked eighth in the nation — in front of perpetual powerhouse UCLA — in the AP's latest major college basketball poll.

Neither team did well in football during the past season, with ASU finishing the year at 4-7 and Arizona 5-6. But in basketball ASU had a respectable 16-11, while Arizona was 24-9.

And both teams shine on the baseball diamond, where ASU was 57-8 and Arizona 44-16. Arizona upset ASU for the NCAA crown.

The conditions set for admitting the two schools were:

That the 50-50 split of gross receipts in football be retained;

A minimum of seven conference games must be played to qualify for the conference championship and a chance to play in the Rose Bowl;

The two schools will be eligible for football competition and Rose Bowl play in 1978;

If the new members are unable to meet the minimum seven-game football schedule requirement by 1982, they can take part in all other sports and act as independents in football;

An 18-game double round-robin basketball conference schedule be established;

As for the conference name itself, Young said there had been no discussion of a switch to Pacific-10, but he expected the change to be made eventually.

Moreno Valley outplayed Victor Valley, 63-51, Monday at La Verne College, to win the title in the small schools portion of the San Dimas tourney. Mira Costa outlasted El Dorado, 59-55, in overtime to take third place and Dana Hills captured the consolation title by beating San Dimas, 54-41.

The open division, with the traditional Tournament of Champions field of Southern California's finest prep basketball teams, will begin tonight at La Verne's Supertent when Ganesha meets Verbum Dei at 7 p.m. Following that game, Pasadena will play Palos Verdes at 9 p.m.

The opening round will conclude Wednesday with Corona del Mar facing Workman at 7 p.m. and Long Beach Poly, the defending champion of both the Tournament of Champions and the CIF 4A playoffs, meeting Clark of Las Vegas, Nev., at 9 p.m.

Four second-round games will be played Thursday at 3, 5, 7 and 9 p.m. The tournament finals are scheduled for Friday, with the consolation title game at 5 p.m., the third place contest at 7 p.m. and the championship game at 9 p.m.

The tournament field is extremely strong as usual, with five of the top 10 teams in the L.A. Times' preseason CIF rankings. Poly, Pasadena and Verbum were rated one-two-three by the Times, Palos Verdes was seventh and Corona del Mar 10th.

Clark is not a CIF school but the Chargers from Las Vegas were runnersup in the state of Nevada last season.

Long Beach Poly won the 1976 CIF 4A title, Palos Verdes won in 1975 and Verbum Dei won the four previous years.

The tournament championship may well be up for grabs. Poly won it last year and went 30-1 for the season, but the Jackrabbits have already lost one this year.

Ventura beat Poly, 56-53, to win the championship of the Beverly Hills Tournament Saturday, the same day Pasadena took the Bassett-Bishop Amat Tournament title with a 92-50 victory over West Covina.

The Tournament of Champions will have 23 players 6-foot-5 or over and 12 that are 6-6 or over. Every team but Clark and Corona del Mar will have three players up front who average over 6-6.

A number of the players in the T of C have been mentioned in national magazines that evaluate prep talent.

Poly's Manuel Johnson, a 6-9 senior, was named to Prep Sports Magazine's pre-season All-America team while teammates Tony Gwynn and Ray Whiting, Corona del Mar's Alex Black and Clark's Edgar Wycliffe were all given honorable mention.

Street and Smith's Basketball Yearbook gave Poly's Dino Gregory All-American honorable mention honors and listed Johnson, Whiting, Gwynn, Black and Workman's Bill Morales as outstanding West Coast players.

Damien's Bill Duffy was also mentioned in that list, and he was named Monday night to the first all-tournament team of the T of C seeded division.

San Dimas' Mark Klein, who led the Saints with 18 points in their loss to Dana Hills in the consolation final, was selected for the second team.

Victor Valley's Tony Anderson, who scored 37 points Saturday night and 77 in three tournament games, was named the tourney's outstanding player.

Bartow still optimistic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA's Gene Bartow says his basketball Bruins aren't exactly where he thought they'd be at this time of the season, but he's optimistic about their future.

Bartow, whose team faces Rice Friday, said Monday that he plans some adjustments in UCLA's lineup, most notably moving Marques Johnson to a wing spot and using guard Jim Spillane outside more often.

"On the basis of the first four games (3-1) and especially on the Notre Dame game Saturday, we are not near where I thought we might be as a team on Dec. 13," Bartow said.

Notre Dame upset the Bruins 66-63 Saturday in Pauley Pavilion, the home court where UCLA had lost only three previous times in 12 seasons.

"I think our talent is as good as Notre Dame's and maybe even better," the second-year coach said. "I think our talent is in the same ball park with Michigan, Marquette and North Carolina and we have as good a chance as anyone to win the NCAA title.

"The past two years everyone has said that Indiana was the power of college basketball, but this year there are many teams that are capable of winning."

UCLA won the NCAA title in 1975, one of 10 they've taken, and finished third last season.

Bartow said he is disappointed in his club's outside shooting so far "but that did not upset me as much as our defense.

"If we don't shoot 50 per cent in games, we are going to struggle, but we have to have defensive movement to win. We should have fronted players where we didn't and we weren't getting our hands up on defense."

The Bruins shot only 42.6 per cent overall from the field against Notre Dame and only 35.5 in the second half."

Bartow hopes to get the ball to Johnson much more frequently than the 14 times he had it to shoot against the Irish.

Robinson praises Rose Bowl foe

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The way John Robinson talks about the Michigan Wolverines makes it sound as if he and his Southern California Trojans should pass up the Rose Bowl.

Robinson, whose Trojans begin practice this week for the Jan. 1 date against second-ranked Michigan, is obviously impressed with Bo Schembechler's Wolverines.

"This is one of the best teams I've seen in college football since the 1972 USC team," Robinson said. "They're No. 1 in scoring, No. 1 in scoring defense, No. 1 in total offense and very high in total defense.

"The Ohio State-Michigan game has been close and very dramatic the last several years," Robinson continued. "But this year it was neither close nor dramatic. Michigan blitzed them."

Then Robinson, in an oblique way, praised his own team, ranked third, by talking about Rose Bowl odds.

"I think it's a tossup," he said. "I don't think the 6-point odds (Michigan favored) affect Michigan or affect us. I think everybody on Michigan's team expects to win, and I think everybody on our team expects to win."

Despite Pittsburgh's current No. 1 ranking, Robinson said he believes the nation's top collegiate team will emerge from the Rose Bowl.

"I think the game is for the national championship," he said. "If we win, I'd like to claim that. Both teams have earned the right to claim it.

"I know this: whoever wins — Michigan or USC — will run off the field yelling, 'We're No. 1.' "

Poly tests tough Poets

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

WHITTIER — Now that Cal Poly's basketball team has broken into the win column, coach Don Hogan is hoping his team can stay there.

But the Broncos face another tough battle here tonight against a team with little to lose and everything to gain by knocking off Poly.

It's apparent coach Dave Jacobs has his finest team in his six seasons at Whittier College and the Poets will be fired up against their biggest opponents.

The tipoff at Whittier's ancient Wardman Gym is 8 p.m.

Poly started its season by losing all four games of a road trip against major college foes Dayton, South Carolina, Notre Dame and Kansas State. The Broncos have even gained national recognition for having the roughest opening schedule in the nation.

Naturally, Poly wasn't expected to win any of those road games and had everything to gain. Notre Dame has since proven how strong it is with its victory over UCLA at Pauley Pavilion.

Now the shoe is on the other foot as the Broncos are busy tackling teams on a lower level.

Poly passed the first test by defeating Southern California College, 103-86, last Friday night at SCC's tiny gymnasium.

But it promises to be even rougher here tonight.

Whittier, a small but very quick team, is off to a 4-2 start with both losses coming on the road in Oregon against major college opponents Portland State (100-82) and Portland (90-89).

The Poets enjoyed three victories last week by whipping Azusa Pacific (98-76), topping Biola (96-70) and edging UC Riverside, 67-64, in an overtime thriller at Riverside.

Whittier sports editor John Strey, who has seen many Poet teams, is excited about this year's club.

"This is probably the best team Jacobs has had," Strey said. "At this stage, this team is as good as the 20-8 club of 1974."

Hogan watched the Poets beat UCR. "Whittier is very, very quick," he reported. "They don't give up at all and are very active on the court."

Jacobs will start a lineup of guard Wyatt Sweeney (6-1), forward George Hightower (6-6) and wings Hugh Butler (6-3), Mike Brown (6-2) and Karl Simmons (6-3). Simmons, who is averaging 23.3 points a game, was voted the Southern California College Player of the Week for scoring 67 points in the three wins last week.

Whittier is shooting at a 54 per cent clip from the floor.

Poly's statistics look much better after the win over SCC. Henry Randolph and Jack Gamulin scored 30 and 28 points respectively to raise their season averages to 14.0 and 13.8.

Randolph, who made 13 of 16 field goals and grabbed 13 rebounds, is now shooting 61.2 per cent from the floor with Gamulin right behind at 53.1 per cent.

"We needed that win," Hogan said. "It was a good feeling."

Chaffey Invitational opens four-day run

The 36th annual Chaffey College Invitational Basketball Tournament swings into action Wednesday morning, and is slated to run through Saturday.

All three local junior colleges are included in the 16-team field. Citrus will kick the tourney off with a 9:30 a.m. contest vs. Glendale. Host Chaffey will meet West Los Angeles at 7:30 p.m. and Mt. San Antonio will wind things up at 9:10 p.m. outing vs. Golden West.

The championship finals in the tourney are slated for 9 p.m. Saturday. Consolation finals will go at 5 p.m. Saturday, with third place to be decided at 7 p.m.

All tourney games will be held at Chaffey's Earl Sicosky Memorial Gym.

Favored teams in the tourney are Los Angeles Harbor, Riverside City College, Golden West and MSAC. The Mounties will take a 5-2 season mark into Wednesday's game with Golden West.

Chaffey, still winless at 0-8 on the year, doesn't figure to contend for the tourney title, but Citrus (4-4 on the year) could surprise, especially since the Owls have an easy touch in their tourney opener vs. a weak Glendale club.

Other teams entered in this year's field include Orange Coast, East Los Angeles, Fullerton, Los Angeles Valley, Pasadena, San Bernardino, San Diego Mesa and El Camino. L.A. Harbor is the defending tourney champ.

JEFF WEBSTER

Webster key for Pirates

Former Garey High standout Jeff Webster is back for his final season of basketball at Whitworth College in Spokane, Wash.

The 6-foot-2, 170-pound starting guard led the team in assists last season while averaging seven points a game for the fourth place Northwest Conference team last year. The Pirates were 11-16 overall.

Things will look different for the Pirates in the 1976-77 season. New head coach Dave Manley has employed an offense different from last year.

"We'll fast break, run and shoot," he said. "Webster will be a key for us. We're not the tallest team around but we'll be exciting to watch."

Webster, a public relations major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Webster of Pomona.

Walt Michaels gets long-delayed chance

NEW YORK (AP) — Defensive coordinator Walt Michaels finally is going to get his twice-delayed chance to be head coach of the New York Jets after 11 years as an assistant with the National Football League club.

The Associated Press learned Monday that Michaels, 46, will be named to succeed Lou Holtz, who bolted the team last week in the first year of a five-year contract. Holtz, unhappy in the pro ranks, said he wanted to return to college coaching and was subsequently named head coach at the University of Arkansas.

General Manager Al Ward denied the appointment of Michaels was official, but said Michaels was one of the top prospects.

"Walt is certainly a strong possibility, but it's not clearcut," Ward insisted. "We're still talking to players and some of the assistants, and we will talk to ownership. No selection has been made. I can't tell you when one will be made ... but I think it will be before the Super Bowl (Jan. 9).

"The feeling is to stay within pro football. I think it depends on whether we go the assistant pro coach route or shoot for a head coach. I think if we go the assistant's route, Walt certainly would be hard to beat."

The Jets got burned a year ago by going the college route. Holtz, Ward's hand-picked coach, was hired away from North Carolina State University and signed to a five-year, $100,000-a-year pact after building the N.C. State program into a winner.

He announced his resignation last Thursday and scouting director Mike Holovak coached the team in its final game Sunday, a 42-3 loss to Cincinnati. The Jets finished with a 3-11 record, worst in their history, for the second year in a row.

Michaels, a graduate of Washington & Lee University, played linebacker for the 1951 Green Bay Packers, then went to the Cleveland Browns for 10 seasons, including four straight as an All-Pro. He coached Oakland's defensive line in 1962 and was a player-coach for the Jets in 1963.

He was the Jets' defensive coordinator through 1972 and was instrumental in developing the defense that helped the team shock Baltimore in Super Bowl III.

When the Jets named Charley Winner as head coach in 1974 to succeed Weeb Ewbank, his father-in-law, Michaels went to the Philadelphia Eagles as defensive coordinator.

Winner was fired late in the 1975 season and Michaels, although again bypassed for the top position, was hired back as defensive coordinator, the first assistant coach to join Holtz' staff.

MILTON, Mass. (AP) — Boston Red Sox pitching star Luis Tiant faced a doubly sad funeral today—a Mass for both his father and mother, both of whom died within three days of each other.

Isabel Tiant died Monday of a heart attack, forcing postponement of a planned Monday funeral for Luis E. Tiant, who died Friday after a short illness. Both were 71.

A double funeral Mass was scheduled today at St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gerald Longo has come out ahead once again — this time as the winningest driver in Western harness racing.

Longo finished first 56 times in 356 starts, while Gene Vallandingham and Joe Lighthill tied for second with 52 firsts in 398 and 364 starts, respectively.

Hollywood Park reported its total attendance for 1976 was 848,414, down from a year ago when the figure was 934,449.

Mutuel betting was also down to $99,463,618 this year from $102,067,168 in 1975.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Bob Newland, a former wide receiver for the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League, filed an $876,000 damage suit Monday, charging his former team with breach of contract.

Newland said signed a contract through 1977, but claims in the federal court suit that the Saints refused to pay him for the last two years of the contract.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Stan Musial and Arnold Palmer have denied reports linking them with a plan to gain control of the Cleveland Indians with a $7 million investment.

Ted Stepien, owner and president of Nationwide Advertising Service, Inc., in Cleveland and a partial owner of the American League team, said he was trying to put together a group and get the struggling Indians in a better financial position.

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle SuperSonics have traded forward Leonard Gray, whom they once hoped would be one of the National Basketball Association's top forwards, to the Washington Bullets for forward Nick Weatherspoon.

The 25-year-old Gray, a 6-foot-8, 240-pounder, has been averaging almost 12 points per game as a starter. Weatherspoon, 26, 6-8, 205 pounds, has averaged 5.4 points per game as a reserve.

BUFFALO (AP) — Winless head coach Jim Ringo will remain at the helm of the Buffalo Bills "for longer than one year" Ralph Wilson, owner of the National Football League team, announced Monday.

The Bills lost the last nine games of the season after Ringo, 44, took over Oct. 15 following the resignation of Lou Saban. The Bills ended the season Sunday, bowing to Baltimore 58-20, giving Buffalo a 2-12 record for the year, 0-9 under Ringo.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Top-seeded Larry Gottfried of Lauderhill, Fla., defeated Mario Martinez of Bolivia 6-1, 6-2 in opening-round action of the Sunshine Matches Between Nations tennis tournament.

BOSTON — High winds forced cancellation of racing after the fourth race at Suffolk Downs.

NEW YORK — Curlique, $10, closed with a rush and beat Aunt Bud by a neck in the $25,000 Surosa Purse at Aqueduct.

PHILADELPHIA — Bold Play, $6.80, captured the feature at Keystone with a 1¾-length triumph over Proud Kenn.

LAUREL, Md. — Bold Man, $4.20, outlasted Lou Rosenbush by a nose and won the feature at Laurel Race Course.

NEW ORLEANS — Clev Er Tell, $3, beat Smiley's Dream in the $5,000 feature at the Fair Grounds.

Kentucky surprises Hall

By Associated Press

The losing coach, who should have been shellshocked, kind of expected his team to get blown out Monday night. It was the winning coach who was surprised.

"We're better than I thought. I've underestimated them and they've given me a pleasant surprise," Kentucky's Joe Hall said after his third-ranked Wildcats buried South Carolina 98-67.

"I have felt all along Kentucky will be ranked No. 1 before the season is over. They certainly looked the part tonight," said South Carolina's Frank McGuire, who is not used to being treated so badly, and certainly not on his home court.

The only other member of The Associated Press' Top Twenty to see action was No. 15 Syracuse, which trounced Penn State 101-63 behind little Jimmy Williams' 20 points.

Kentucky, 5-0, jumped to a 10-0 lead and South Carolina never recovered. At the half, it was 52-34, and at one point in the second half, the Wildcats led by 35 points. Jack Givens paced Kentucky with 28 points and Mike Phillips had 23.

"This group of juniors has been playing together for the third year now and they've matured," Hall said. "We've been dominating some very good teams."

Jackie Gilloon topped 1-3 South Carolina with 17 points and freshman center Jim Graziano had 16.

"I was happy with the way Graziano played," McGuire said. "He was a plus. The other freshmen didn't play badly, but you're not going to win with freshmen against a team like Kentucky."

Perhaps not even with seniors, since the victory extended Kentucky's winning streak to 15, longest of any major college basketball team in the nation. The loss was the worst for the Gamecocks on their home court since moving into the Carolina Coliseum eight years ago. The greatest margin of defeat previously was seven points.

Williams enabled 7-1 Syracuse to pull away from Penn State with an eight-point burst midway through the first half.

"Jimmy got us going," said Coach Jim Boeheim. "We're a running team and if we can get going we're going to be tough to beat. Jimmy gets us going."

The margin of defeat came as a shock to Penn State's Johnny Bach.

"They don't have any outstanding All-American names, but together they do a great job," he said. "They are a wild bunch. I certainly didn't expect this debacle."

Elsewhere:

—Army boosted its record to 6-0, its best start in eight years, routing Kings Point 76-52.

—Unbeaten Dayton placed four men in double figures and turned back New Orleans 82-68.

—Wichita State held off Long Beach State 83-78 behind Bob Elmore's 22 points.

—Freshman Dean Uthoff scored 22 points and grabbed 19 rebounds as Iowa State downed California 78-70.

—Sophomore Carl McPipe scored 25 points as Nebraska walloped Northwest Missouri 88-53.

—Houston, which beat Lamar by 10 points earlier in the season, doubled its pleasure and downed the Cardinals 103-83 although Otis Birdsong, one of the nation's scoring leaders with a 33.3 average, managed only 17 on 6-for-21 shooting.

—Matt Hicks scored 26 points, leading Northern Illinois over Wisconsin 81-57.

Long Beach State hires Stanford aide

LONG BEACH (AP) — Dave Currey, a member of the coaching staff on two Rose Bowl teams at Stanford, has been named football coach at Long Beach State.

Currey was named Monday to fill the post vacated when Wayne Howard resigned last week to become coach at the University of Utah.

Currey, 33, has been on the Stanford staff since 1970, serving at times as the offensive coordinator, director of recruiting and backfield coach.

Two of those Cardinal teams, 1971 and 1972, won the Rose Bowl.

Currey, a fullback on the 1950 South Pasadena High School CIF champions, also played on Glendale Junior College's championship team in 1962.

In 1963 he went to Samford University in Birmingham, Ala., where he played under Bobby Bowden, current Florida State coach. Currey later transferred to Los Angeles State, where he was graduated in 1966.

He began his coaching career at St. Francis High in La Canada, then went on to guide Bonaventure High of Ventura to the CIF championship in 1968.

McNeese's victory earns some respect

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Only 15,542 college football fans watched McNeese State upset Tulsa 20-16 in the first Independence Bowl, but they got a good show for their money.

McNeese won the game Monday night on Oliver Hadnot's 25-yard run with 37 seconds left. The Cowboys did it without the services of 16 regular-season players.

Ten McNeese seniors were ineligible for the game because they were redshirted as freshmen, and six others were kicked off the team recently for having a girl in a men's dormitory.

McNeese Coach Jack Doland said his remaining players were angry over talk that without the 16 players, the Cowboys were not a representative team.

"Tulsa just didn't have enough respect for us," Doland said. "This kind of irritated us."

"We played this one from the heart," agreed McNeese linebacker Bob Howell. "We just wanted it more than they did."

Hadnot's last-minute touchdown was set up by Tulsa mistakes that left McNeese with a first down on the Tulsa 33.

On fourth-and-seven from midfield, McNeese, trailing 16-14, threw an interception. But Tulsa was guilty of pass interference and roughing the passer. McNeese accepted the roughing penalty and retained the ball.

Until that play, it had appeared Tulsa had gained the winning margin on Steve Cox's 38-yard field goal with 4:22 left.

Tulsa had scored earlier touchdowns on Thomas Bailey's one-yard run in the first quarter and Mel McGowen's 56-yard run with a blocked punt in the third.

McNeese got field goals of 42 and 34 yards by Jan Peebles, who was filling in for one of the 16 missing players, and a one-yard touchdown run by Mike McArthur.

McNeese quarterback Terry McFarland was voted the game's top offensive player. Terry Clark of Tulsa was named the most valuable defensive player.

McNeese State, champion of the Southland Conference, finished the year with a 10-2 record. Tulsa, co-champion of the Missouri Valley Conference, wound up 7-4-1.

Playhouse does Simon comedy

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

Neil Simon's first comedy, "Come Blow Your Horn," was given a fast-moving and amusing presentation at the Claremont Playhouse over the weekend.

The play goes at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday for several weekends. Reservations can be made at 621-5005.

"Come Blow Your Horn," although not top-drawer Simon, nonetheless shows the seeds of the wry wit, the snappy one-liners and the artful characterizations that were to make "Barefoot in the Park" and "The Odd Couple" classics of American comedy.

The raucous buffoonery takes place on a stylish, professional set created by George Gizienski, a classy bachelor apartment in Manhattan's east 60s. Stage manager Peter Stratz does it full justice.

Much of the success of the comedy is due to professional actor Michael Potter, who comes on smart, glib and persuasive as the young swinger, Alan Baker. Potter, a veteran of several films and numerous television shows, gives the play an emphatic and nicely paced zip.

His kid brother, Buddy, to whom he wants to teach the facts of life, is played with bumbling, genial charm by Don Ebright, a facile, polished performer who meets the vicissitudes of life (amorous blondes) with aplomb.

Joni Young is a sly, sexy Peggy Evans, performing with sparkle and insouciance. Jullane Brown's Connie is stylish and fun. John Gaglio gives an excellent characterization of the irascible father of the two young men, and Virginia Lind is the warm, jolly mother.

Patrick Miller directs the comedy with flair and discipline.

Student recital slated

The Pomona College music department will present a variety of singers and instrumentalists in a student recital in Thatcher Music Building at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday. Admission is free.

Harold Johnson will open the concert with the Prelude and Fugue in C Major by Bach, played on the von Beckerath tracker-action organ. Elaine Scalzo will also be heard at the organ, in the variations by Sweelinck on "Mein junges Leben hat ein End." Kendall Feeney, pianist, will play two Brahms capriccios. Singers on the program include Frank Albinder, bass, in songs by Vaughan Williams and Schumann; Mary Hart, soprano, in Debussy songs, and Jim Busterud, baritone, in a group of English songs. Sharon Inouye, harpsichordist, will play a group of pieces by Philips, Farnaby, and Rameau. Renata Bratt will play a Beethoven cello sonata.

AN AMERICAN IN PARIS — Paris residents are held back by police barriers on the Avenue des Champs-Elysees Sunday as they attempt to get a close look at the giant ape, King Kong, arriving in the French capital to publicize the film. On the chest of the 40-foot beast sits actress Jessica Lange, who stars in the remake of the classic movie thriller.

Too pretty for movies?

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Joan Collins is one of the most beautiful actresses around. The striking English brunette says, however, that beauty is no longer a great asset in Hollywood.

"Glamor or beauty," she says, "are no longer in demand. I often go to interviews for parts without any make-up, with my hair pulled back, trying to look as unglamorous as possible. And still they say, 'Too pretty, too glamorous.'"

There are some parts, of course, where being attractive is a plus. One such is her recent Universal film, "The Bawdy Adventures of Tom Jones," in which she plays a highwayman (highwayperson?) named Black Bess. But parts like that are rare.

"Mostly," she says, "the producers seem to think that the only parts a pretty girl can play are actresses, models or call girls. They would never cast me as a housewife or mother — and yet that's exactly what I am in real life."

"I've decided," she says, "that you have to create your own roles, fight for them. If you don't, you're like a book on the shelf — you never get taken down.

"So I'm becoming a librarian, I'm going to take myself down. I'm going to produce my first film this winter in England. It's 'The Stud,' based on a book written by my sister, Jackie."

JOAN COLLINS

Chorale to give concert

The Pomona Valley Chorale, under the direction of Raymond Woods, will present its annual Christmas concert in the sanctuary of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Pomona, at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Tickets are $1, with senior citizens and children under 12 admitted free.

The 30-voice chorale will sing Part 1 of Handel's "Messiah" and a series of Christmas carols. Gary Toops will accompany on the organ.

Soloists will be Rosemary Jernigan, soprano; Carolyn Thompson, soprano; June Smith, contralto; Stanley Chapin, tenor, and Klaas Volbedo, bass.

Ebell Christmas luncheon slated

KEN REMO

The program for the Pomona Ebell Christmas luncheon Friday at 12:30 p.m. at the clubhouse will feature two outstanding artists, Ken Remo, lyric tenor, and George Goulding, concert pianist.

A native New Yorker, Mr. Remo won a scholarship at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia where he studied under such notables as Richard Bonelli and Gian-Carlo Menotti. This classical background was held in reserve while he detoured via the Broadway Musical Theater.

Mr. Remo came to California with the National Company of "The King and I" and made Los Angeles his home. He quickly established himself in television and recordings.

George Goulding, California pianist, has been performing in public since the age of 11. His final coaching was with Ethel Bartlett Robertson, a protege of Artur Schnabel. Mr. Goulding has concertized extensively throughout the western part of the country, as well as in Mexico and Canada.

Grace for the luncheon will be sung by Mrs. Cheryl Frank.

Christmas decorations in the parlor for the month of December were made by various members of Ebell and hung under the supervision of Mrs. Jacques Griset, art chairman.

Holiday party scheduled

The Pomona Valley-Citrus Legal Secretaries Association will hold its annual Christmas party Friday at the Islander Terrace Restaurant, 4620 Holt Boulevard, Montclair.

The coctail hour at 6:30 p.m. will precede dinner at 7:30 p.m. Reservations should be made with Joanne Warner at 213-967-5652 after 6:00 p.m. by Tuesday.

There will be a Christmas ornament exchange for those who wish to participate. The dinner is open to guests.

WCTU schedules speaker

The Pomona-Claremont Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the Claremont Manor, 650 W. Harrison Ave., Claremont, at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Clem Neibel, chairman of the Historical Society of Pomona Valley, Inc., will speak on "The WCTU Impact on Pomona."

Carla Cogswell, Upland High School student, will sing and play the guitar. There will be singing of Christmas carols.

Mrs. Margaret McMillin will give the devotions.

Miss Harriet Morley will be in charge of the program and the officers will be hostesses.

Gifts will be collected for boys at probation camps instead of a white-elephant exchange. Interested people are welcome to attend.

Make bibs

Sew bibs for baby or aprons for young "artists" from an old plastic shower curtain. Binding around the edges and ribbon for ties add a decorative touch. The recycled garments can be wiped clean with a sudsy sponge or machine washed. Remember, plastic articles should only be dried on the "air" setting of an automatic dryer.

Joyce Brothers

Helping her daughter

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: I was shocked when my grandson appeared at my house with bruises all over his body. When I questioned my daughter, she cried and said she had lost her temper when he broke some article her former husband had given her. I'm ashamed to say I believe this has happened before. I feel guilty because when she was young, I was an alcoholic and had blackouts so I don't remember what those years were like for her. I do know she was mistreated. I've stopped drinking and want to make it up to her, but I don't know how. — A.N.

DEAR A.N.: You can help your daughter now by encouraging her to seek professional counseling that will help her understand her own needs and those of her child. There are places where she can get this treatment. More than a million American children suffer physical abuse or neglect each year and these figures represent a social problem of epidemic proportion.

Various programs designed to help both the children and their parents are springing up around the country. Her family doctor should be able to direct her to a group that will serve as a backup to the professional therapy. One group, called Parents Anonymous, has helped many abusive parents cope with frustration in mature ways. On the West Coast, this self-help organization is called Mothers Anonymous. All of the programs help parents learn not to take out their frustration in hostility toward the children.

Help your daughter know she can confide in you and that you will be there to share and listen. Drugs of any kind will contribute to her problem. Let her know that you'll be there to care for your grandson if pressures become too great.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Because of a recent illness, I've been unable to drive so my 18-year-old daughter takes me wherever I need to go. I'm a nervous wreck. She's terrible. She drives recklessly, skids around corners and almost always exceeds the speed limit. I'm surprised she hasn't lost her license. I can't understand why she turns into a devil behind the wheel. — W.H.

DEAR W.H.: The driving behavior you've described used to be more typical of young males which is one of the reasons insurance rates went up so steeply for young men. I suspect that within eight or ten years, the insurance rates for young women will reach the same level.

Unfortunately, some young women, in trying to gain more respect and freedom for their sex, often try to emulate the worst in men's behavior. They see the only route to equality as being more male and may use the automobile to test their power and courage.

Try to point out to your daughter that this behavior is dangerous and immature. There are many other, and better ways for her to demonstrate courage.

It's possible that she may turn into "a devil" when she's driving because she hasn't found other ways to release her anger and frustration. Help her to know it's quite acceptable to express these feelings in words. Encourage her to express her feelings so they're not saved and bottled up for the car.

Strickland-Clark nuptial rites read

MRS. D. STRICKLAND

The St. Margaret's Church in Chino was the setting for the marriage of Miss Carolyn Clark of Chino and Douglas Strickland of Upland. The couple was wed by the Rev. Robert Erikson in a double-ring ceremony followed by a reception at El Prado Country Club in Chino.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cohen Clark of Chino. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Strickland of Upland. Miss Mary Anthony was honor attendant. Serving as best man was Frank De Crasto. Other attendants were Steve Strickland, Jeff Wingert, Larry Schreians, Steve Schreians, Millie Clark, Theresa Clark, Mary Clark, Pam Strickland and Cay Conger.

The newlyweds honeymooned at The Grand Canyon and are now at home in Chino.

Zonta Club schedules dinner meet

Zonta Club will hold its annual Christmas dinner party Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Hillie Thurn.

Jean Funk, fellowship chairman, and her committee will be in charge of the dinner. Secret pals will be revealed at a gift exchange.

Among the guests will be Teddy Biewener, Mildred Clark and Polly Langston.

Safety study

When the Consumer Product Safety Commission released results of a bathtub safety study it had contracted to a consulting agency, Mobile Oil learned that "slips and falls are by far the most frequent type of bathtub accident, and these . . . frequently occur while entering or leaving the tub or while changing between a sitting and standing position." This cost the U.S. taxpayers $145,000.

Wash away

For a quick refresher at the end of a long day, take a shower that goes from lukewarm to cool, then relax in a warm tub for five minutes.

Industrial nurses will meet

The Inland Center Association of Industrial Nurses (ICIAN) will hold a dinner meeting Wednesday at Holiday Inn in Riverside. The session will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a social hour followed by dinner at 7 p.m. The speakers will be Dave Kandell, industrial hygiene administrator and Phil Newman, industrial hygienist. Their topic will be "Respiratory Hazards in Industry."

Christmas legends captured in cards

Take a closer look at your Christmas cards. There may be more there than meets the eye.

"Christmas cards are full of symbolism," says Hallmark researcher Sally Hopkins. "Many of the illustrations are based on almost forgotten legends."

According to a German legend, tinsel resulted when little house spiders spun their silk to decorate the bare tree of a poor old woman who had been kind to them. Their act of charity impressed an angel who turned the spider webs to shining silver.

The Christmas tree is the subject of another German legend.

As a woodsman and his family were about to retire on Christmas Eve, a small, cold and hungry child knocked at the door. The family took the child in, fed him and gave him a place to sleep. The next morning the family awakened to the singing of a choir of angels. They discovered that it was the Christ Child they had fed. Jesus planted a twig from a fir tree in the ground and said: "I have gladly received your gifts, and here is mine to you; this tree will never fail to bear its fruit at Christmas and you shall always have abundance."

Christmas card artists have a wealth of other symbols from which to draw, Miss Hopkins says.

Holly is symbolic of chastity. Flying birds symbolize spiritual life. A peacock stands for eternal life.

Lambs call attention to the sacrifice on the cross. Sheep indicate that all living things owe allegiance to their Creator. Beasts of burden often stand for humility.

A white rose on a Chirstmas card recalls the legend of the little shepherd girl who burst into tears at the manger because she had no gifts. An angel, seeing her plight, turned her tears into white roses.

Christmas lights symbolize the Glory of God and holly berries the drops of blood caused by Christ's crown of thorns.

Even Santa Claus, though he has been secularized through the years, sprang from religious origins, Miss Hopkins says.

"The children of Dutch colonists called St. Nicholas, an early Christain bishop, Sinterklaus," she says, "and it wasn't long before the name was Americanized to Santa Claus."

By whatever name, Santa Claus symbolized the joy of giving.

Singles party charted

A newly formed group of Christian single men and women from the Valley Community Drive-In Church, Lone Hill avenue and Covina Boulevard, San Dimas, is sponsoring a Christmas potluck party Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Glendora home of Bev Imondi.

Partygoers are asked to bring an inexpensive gag gift which will be exchanged during one of the many games planned for the evening.

Interested single and formerly married men and women are invited to call Mrs. Imondi at 213-335-6942 or Don Scott at 714-981-2052 for reservations and other information about the potluck party.

Crepe making

More and more people are acquiring a taste for crepes, and the knack of making them. The versatile, thin pancakes associated with French gourmet cooking are easy to prepare — everything from appetizers to desserts can be wrapped in crepes!

There are many crepe makers on the market. Electric crepe varieties are available with no-stick surfaces. Another type has a heating base and separate crepe pan which doubles as a small frypan. Still another cooks in traditional, inside the pan fashion. A non-electric, range-top crepe maker of stainless steel is designed to cook crepes "bottom-up" and comes in 7" and 8" models.

The non-electric utensils are made of easy care materials and can be washed in a sinkful of suds. Electrical varieties which have heating elements as part of the unit or bases on others should not be immersed in water. Instead, wipe clean with a suds-dampened sponge.

Most of the hospital employes contributed to the cookbook which is now in its second printing. Working to complete the project were Robbin Burrows, Diana Steed, Veda Lindsay, Barbara Rittmiller, Peg Brower, Wendy Skelton and Norma Williams.

The cookbook is available by calling the hospital. The cost is $2.
